Presidents Message

My fellow Rotarians, Welcome to our 15th GMM Meeting. Finally it's Christmas season, the most wonderful time of the year.

The Rotary International monthly theme for December is Disease Prevention and Treatment. While Rotary's priority is the eradication of polio worldwide, providing clean water and proper sanitation are the most effective ways that we can combat the spread of this deadly disease. Thus, the urgency in doing and implementing our water sanitation project soon.

We ended our month last November by celebrating the first Kythe Foundation family day. The primary purpose of the activity is to give hope to those kids suffering with cancer and letting them feel that they can live life as normal kids. I would like to personally thank all those who supported this activity and making it successful. It was such a fun day with all the games, food carts and dancing mascot entertaining all the kids as they took their Jollibee lunch. This is made possible through all our efforts and your generosity. The priceless smile on those kids faces and their loving families made it all worth it

We hope that in this season of giving, we would continue to share our blessings and continue to touch the lives of others. May God continue to bless us all.

Thank you

President's message

There is no experience quite like attending the Rotary International Convention. Discover the true spirit of aloha and Rotary with your family, friends, and fellow Rotarians from 6 to 10 June in Honolulu. It is the perfect setting for the entire family of Rotary to celebrate, collaborate, and connect.

There are two types of people who enjoy visits to Hawaii — those who have never been to the islands and are about to have unique and wonderful experiences, and those who have had those Hawaiian moments etched into their memories already and cannot wait to create some new ones.

The convention is the best place to find and share your aloha, which you will soon discover is much more than a greeting. Just as Rotary is a way of life for Rotarians, aloha is a way of life for Hawaiians — one that focuses on living in harmony, being patient, treating everyone with respect, and sharing joy with your family, or 'ohana.

Our host committee has arranged some fabulous events for you and your family. This includes a Hawaiian Culture and Lunch Boat Cruise, a two-hour tour that will feature spectacular views of Diamond Head, Waikiki, and the Kahala Gold Coast. On board, you can learn to play the ukulele, take part in hula dancing, and create your own Hawaiian flower lei. You will also have the opportunity to enjoy a full range of island hospitality events, from small backyard picnics to multicourse family meals. There will be fantastic service projects to see, including two ancient Hawaiian fishponds. And a sunrise Walk for Peace will take place at the beautiful Ala Moana Beach Park, a 3-mile stroll in the shadow of the iconic Diamond Head crater.

Rotary President Mark Daniel Maloney outside the United Nations headquarters in New York City.

Inside and outside the convention halls, we are going to hold the most family-friendly convention in Rotary history, including a family-centered opening ceremony and family-focused events in the House of Friendship. The opening session will, of course, include our traditional flag ceremony.

Our 2020 convention will also be a time to celebrate Rotary's historical ties to the United Nations. As I mentioned in my November message, June 2020 will mark the 75th anniversary of the signing of the United Nations charter. On the day before the start of the convention, Rotary and the UN will host our fifth joint event of 2019-20, one focused on environmental sustainability.

In addition, we are planning the greenest convention in Rotary history — and I will share more details about this in the months ahead. But now, go to riconvention.org and click the REGISTER button right below the Honolulu Hawaii 2020 logo. Early registration discount pricing ends 15 December, so do not delay.

Rotary Connects the World in no better way than at the Rotary Convention. Bring your family to meet our family. See you in Honolulu!

A message from
Foundation Trustee Chair
Gary C.K. Huang

The year is almost over, and I know that you are thinking about giving gifts and making last-minute contributions. You are wondering how best to show your appreciation and love.

The answer is very simple — make your gifts to The Rotary Foundation. Don't take my word for it: In an independent analysis, your Rotary Foundation was ranked No. 1 among the world's best-known charities. For the 12th consecutive year, The Rotary Foundation has received the highest rating — four stars — from Charity Navigator, an independent evaluator of charities. The Foundation earned the maximum of 100 points for demonstrating both strong financial health and commitment to accountability and transparency in Charity Navigator's August ratings.

In a letter to the Foundation, Charity Navigator notes that "only 1 percent of the charities we evaluate have received at least 12 consecutive four-star evaluations, indicating that The Rotary Foundation outperforms other charities in America. This exceptional designation from Charity Navigator sets the Foundation apart from its peers and demonstrates to the public its trustworthiness."

This recognition comes on top of awards won in the past several years. Rotary's commitment to eradicating polio worldwide won Best Nonprofit Act in the Hero Awards of the One Billion Acts of Peace campaign, an international global citizens movement to tackle the world's most important issues. And the Association of Fundraising Professionals — the world's largest network of professional fundraisers — named The Rotary Foundation the World's Outstanding Foundation, honoring our long-term achievements.

It's easy to say that we belong to one of the greatest philanthropic organizations in the world. But the truth is, your Rotary Foundation is the best. So close out the year by giving the greatest gift of all to the world. Gimme five and show your support for The Rotary Foundation.

Have a merry Christmas and a happy new year!

Our Promises to the World

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of reflections on Rotary's Vision Statement: Together, we see a world where people unite and take action to create lasting change – across the globe, in our communities, and in ourselves. By Paddy Rooney, governor of District 7390 (Pennsylvania, USA)

Paddy Rooney

Just recently we celebrated the 50th anniversary of the moon landing, the first time any human had stood on another world. But as remarkable as that event was what I remember most from that whole period was the earlier flights from the Kennedy Space Center and, above all, that remarkable photograph of Earth taken from the module which was the first time any of us had seen our planet as a whole from a distance. There it was, splendid in its suspension in the midst of the black space which surrounded it, a remarkable view of our world which took your breath away for its beauty and its wonder.

Our Rotary Vision Statement says we see “a world” and that, in itself is true, for “a world” is different from “the world” for who can say whether, in this vast expanse of universe, there are other worlds apart from ours. But what we do know is that, moon landings aside, this is the only world we have for now, the only world on which we live and the only world which we will ever call Earth.

Which means that this world is not only our home but it is also our responsibility. And we Rotarians take this responsibility seriously. When we see our world we see its beauty and its astounding, almost breathtaking, uniqueness.

But we also see that which mars that beauty – the poverty, the hunger, the daily difficulty of living, the wars and conflicts and the disasters, both human and natural, which cause so much suffering. And having seen these things in our world we respond in ways that only Rotarians can. This is not always easy but we have not been deterred in the past and we will not be put off by the future.

Sometimes the problems and the issues in our world seem to be getting larger and more out of our control. But our commitment to our world is such that we will not loose heart but will continue until we have achieved our goals.

Our promises

For we have made this world of ours some promises. We have promised that we will defeat this insidious disease called polio. We have promised to help communities throughout our world to have clean water or sanitation or economic development to help them in the future. We have promised to help resolve the many conflicts which plague our world and to bring reconciliation.

We have promised to bring hope for the children of our world and for their future. This world is our world and together we see this world and promise that when we are done, this world of ours will be left in just a little bit better shape than when we came into it.

A picture can speak a thousand words.

TOP 5 REASONS TO ERADICATE POLIO

Your gift will improve lives

Thanks to Rotary's decades-long commitment to polio vaccination, 16 million people are walking today who would otherwise have been paralyzed.

Your gift will invest in the future

Since we began our push to eradicate polio, cases have been reduced by more than 99.9 percent. If we don't finish the job, polio could resurge — in 10 years, 200,000 children could be paralyzed each year.

Your gift will improve child health

Polio surveillance networks and vaccination campaigns also monitor children for other health problems, like vitamin deficiency and measles, so they can be addressed sooner.

Your gift is a sound financial investment

A polio-free world will save the global economy $40 billion to $50 billion in health costs within the next 20 years. Just imagine how that money could be used.

Your gift will make history

Polio eradication would be one of history's greatest public health achievements, following smallpox to become only the second human disease eliminated from the world.

YOU can be a part of history.

YOU can create a world without polio.

YOU can help us finish the job.

A Dose of Positive Thoughts

MARICEL BORRROMEO-AMORES GML Editor -In-Chief, District 3860 President, RY 2017-2018

This is the time to infuse the joy and peace into your life. If you need to recharge, then do it and keep looking for ways to make every second of your life count.

First thing in the morning when you wake up, choose to be happy and make it your mantra to thrive with the passion to be grateful at every single blessing that comes your way. Although you can never control what comes your way but if you view it with kindness in your heart then most likely whatever it is, you will always be your cheerful self.

It starts inside of you and that is the only thing you can control. There is no greater power but the ability to overcome any obstacle and make it instead an opportunity. Keep out of the “sad domain” and stay afloat to breathe in some oxygen of peace and calm. Just think of what you can do now as the past is past you cannot replay and change it. The future is not a certainty for you to depend on it. It is the “NOW” that matters... nothing else.

For as long as you entrust your life with the one true God who only looks into your welfare then you are fine.

Learn to enjoy every minute of your life.

BE HAPPY NOW.

Don't wait for something outside of yourself to make you happy in the future. Think how really precious is the time you have to spend, whether it's at work or with your family. Every minute should be enjoyed and savored.

Rotary's Membership Leads program handles the introductions; the rest is up to your club

by NANCY SHEPHERDSON

Club officer installations, as important as they are, tend to have a sameness — announce names and titles, swear them in, applaud. But when I heard Susie Whipple's name announced in June, I could barely contain myself. "Hey, she's mine!" I wanted to shout. I had referred her to the Rotary Club of Barrington Breakfast, Illinois, through Rotary's Membership Leads program. That club took full advantage of the introduction and made her a member almost immediately; she was a board member less than a year later.

Membership Leads is the way that Rotary International takes online inquiries from people who are interested in Rotary and turns them into members. Anyone, anywhere in the world, can fill out a form at rotary.org/join that asks them for their contact information and the meeting location, day of the week, and time of day that would best fit their needs. This form provides prospective members with a lot of flexibility, but can also result in some challenging requests: towns with no clubs, or days when no nearby clubs meet.

Enter the Membership Leads coordinator. In the case of District 6440 in the Chicago suburbs, that's me. I call everyone who comes to us through our district's Membership Leads page (these prospects have already been screened by Rotary staff to make sure they meet Rotary's membership requirements). The calls are my way of letting every prospective member know that Rotary is welcoming and interested in them.

When she filled out the online form, Susie Whipple had named the town she lives in, which has no club. I could have simply referred her to the closest club, of course. But I called her first, and learned that she had already visited that club and had not had a great experience. Years ago, however, she did have a great experience studying in France with Rotary Youth Exchange, so she wanted to give Rotary another chance.

I recently asked her how she went from being a prospective member to a board member — and a volunteer on the district youth committee to help others find out about Rotary Youth Exchange — in such a short time. "I filled out a form on the Rotary website and then you called me," Susie remembers. "You and I had a fairly lengthy conversation about club options. You asked me about my preferences and my life." During that chat, Susie and I searched for nearby clubs on Rotary's online Club Finder. Because she is an independent wine consultant, her schedule is fairly flexible, but for various reasons the clubs on the list weren't working for her. As we spoke, I discovered that one of Susie's top priorities was being around friendly people. Coincidentally, we had arrived at the 19th club on the list: Bar-

Making people feel welcome and valued from the first phone call is the best way to persuade them to join you.

rington Breakfast. “You know, that’s the friendliest club in the area,” I told her. “Sold,” she said.

Her first visit to the club confirmed it was a great match. “I remember going just to check it out, and they were so open-armed,” she says. “They were very interested in my life, and so welcoming.” In fact, the 44-member club recognized her expertise and immediately asked her to be in charge of wine and beer at an upcoming fundraiser.

Her experience taught me something: The factors we think should dictate what club a person might prefer to join don’t always apply. The club Susie chose is 10 miles from her home; at least three others are closer. Even more challenging, the club meets at 7 a.m., which puts her in the middle of rush-hour traffic. “I have to get up at 5 a.m. to get there, but I’m glad to do it,” she says.

You would think that every club would be eager to follow up on the prospective members their district Membership Leads coordinators send them. That isn’t always the case — but the good news is that it isn’t hard to replicate the successful match between Susie and Barrington Breakfast.

Once a prospective member decides which club he or she would like to visit, I assign that person to that club, and an email about the referral goes out to the club president, secretary, and membership chair, as well as the district’s assistant governor. This referral email can be a little complex, so I also send a friendly reminder to the club president about each hot prospect, asking them to report their progress toward membership on the Manage Membership Leads page. (Unless clubs enter a report, the Membership Leads coordinator never knows what has happened to a given prospect. To find all your current and many previous leads, sign in to My Rotary, go to Club Administration under the Manage tab, and then click on Membership Leads.)

Clubs that convert the most leads to membership tend to be the clubs that assign someone, as soon as they receive a referral, to call the prospective member to invite them to an upcoming meeting or event.

In District 5060 (parts of British Columbia and Washington state), Rob Tidd is membership committee chair. His own club, the Rotary Club of Wenatchee Confluence, Washington — a combined noon club and evening satellite club — has added almost 30 members in the past year. He tries to guide his district’s clubs into actively following up on their leads.

“Most of my clubs will jump on the leads right away, but there is sometimes poor follow-up,” he says. “I’ve told them not to send an email to prospective members. Pick up the phone and call them to invite them to a meeting or event. They will be elated to get that contact from the club.” Tidd will follow up if he hasn’t heard from his clubs about leads they have received. “Some of the prospective members are still receptive,” he notes, “and just didn’t click with the first referral.”

Rotary International is working to make the Membership Leads program easier for clubs to use, with staff members visiting district coordinators to solicit our advice. Soon, clubs will also be able to enter their own leads into the RI system, which will allow clubs to keep track of the prospective members they have identified themselves.

You may believe that Membership Leads doesn’t really work for your club because you haven’t gained any new members through the program. In fact, whether it works is up to your club. In my experience, making people feel welcome and valued from the first phone call is the best way to persuade them to join you.

Perhaps your club has never received any leads through the program at all — at least none that you know about. Club presidents, secretaries, and membership chairs, as well as assistant district governors, have access to their Manage Membership Leads page, but you don’t have to be a club officer to get involved. If you are an outgoing person who likes to match people with opportunities, you could volunteer to help your club or district membership committee follow up with prospective members. Right now Stan Roelker, a member of the Rotary Club of Lincolnshire (Morning Star), Illinois, is making it possible for me to communicate with many more clubs than I would be able to on my own about their open leads.

To help grow Rotary, we need membership candidates of all kinds. And Membership Leads candidates are some of the hottest prospects of all: These are people who have taken the time to reach out to Rotary on their own. They might be looking for community service opportunities. They may want to hone their leadership abilities. Or perhaps they are interested in working to solve a specific problem and realize that Rotary might be able to help them do that. Bottom line: They are looking for something. It might just be your club. ■

Nancy Shepherdson, a freelance writer, is a member of the Rotary Club of Lake Zurich, Illinois, and has been in charge of Membership Leads for District 6440 since 2017.
