INVOCATION

Heavenly Father, who has brought us together today, strengthen us by Your wisdom and virtue that we may accomplish all the things that You consider as our duty and responsibility. Father may everything we do begin with Your inspiration and continue with Your saving grace. Amen.

...Fellowship Continues...

Quote for the Week

Presidents Message

My Fellow Rotarians, let me greet each and everyone a Merry Christmas.

I would like to welcome everyone in our fellowship Christmas party. This is the ultimate month for huge gatherings in family as well as social groups. And so we share the joy of the season by meaningful celebration and sharing it with people that matters to us dearly. It wouldn't be complete without sharing to the least of our brothers and sisters who are not so fortunate to celebrate the season without our generosity and help.

With this in our heart, the kids of Don Bosco Orphanage as well Mother Teresas Orphanage will truly be blessed this season as we provide bundles of joy and sacks of rice to them in our upcoming project this Dec 12. We truly appreciate all the big heart rotarians who tirelessly extends their blessings in so many ways and in countless times.

May the spirit of Love gently fill our hearts and homes. In this loveliest of seasons may all of us find many reasons for happiness and joy.

Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New year to us all!

President's message

There is no experience quite like attending the Rotary International Convention. Discover the true spirit of aloha and Rotary with your family, friends, and fellow Rotarians from 6 to 10 June in Honolulu. It is the perfect setting for the entire family of Rotary to celebrate, collaborate, and connect.

There are two types of people who enjoy visits to Hawaii — those who have never been to the islands and are about to have unique and wonderful experiences, and those who have had those Hawaiian moments etched into their memories already and cannot wait to create some new ones.

The convention is the best place to find and share your aloha, which you will soon discover is much more than a greeting. Just as Rotary is a way of life for Rotarians, aloha is a way of life for Hawaiians — one that focuses on living in harmony, being patient, treating everyone with respect, and sharing joy with your family, or 'ohana.

Our host committee has arranged some fabulous events for you and your family. This includes a Hawaiian Culture and Lunch Boat Cruise, a two-hour tour that will feature spectacular views of Diamond Head, Waikiki, and the Kahala Gold Coast. On board, you can learn to play the ukulele, take part in hula dancing, and create your own Hawaiian flower lei. You will also have the opportunity to enjoy a full range of island hospitality events, from small backyard picnics to multicourse family meals. There will be fantastic service projects to see, including two ancient Hawaiian fishponds. And a sunrise Walk for Peace will take place at the beautiful Ala Moana Beach Park, a 3-mile stroll in the shadow of the iconic Diamond Head crater.

Rotary President Mark Daniel Maloney outside the United Nations headquarters in New York City.

Inside and outside the convention halls, we are going to hold the most family-friendly convention in Rotary history, including a family-centered opening ceremony and family-focused events in the House of Friendship. The opening session will, of course, include our traditional flag ceremony.

Our 2020 convention will also be a time to celebrate Rotary's historical ties to the United Nations. As I mentioned in my November message, June 2020 will mark the 75th anniversary of the signing of the United Nations charter. On the day before the start of the convention, Rotary and the UN will host our fifth joint event of 2019-20, one focused on environmental sustainability.

In addition, we are planning the greenest convention in Rotary history — and I will share more details about this in the months ahead. But now, go to riconvention.org and click the REGISTER button right below the Honolulu Hawaii 2020 logo. Early registration discount pricing ends 15 December, so do not delay.

Rotary Connects the World in no better way than at the Rotary Convention. Bring your family to meet our family. See you in Honolulu!

A message from
Foundation Trustee Chair
Gary C.K. Huang

The year is almost over, and I know that you are thinking about giving gifts and making last-minute contributions. You are wondering how best to show your appreciation and love.

The answer is very simple — make your gifts to The Rotary Foundation. Don't take my word for it: In an independent analysis, your Rotary Foundation was ranked No. 1 among the world's best-known charities. For the 12th consecutive year, The Rotary Foundation has received the highest rating — four stars — from Charity Navigator, an independent evaluator of charities. The Foundation earned the maximum of 100 points for demonstrating both strong financial health and commitment to accountability and transparency in Charity Navigator's August ratings.

In a letter to the Foundation, Charity Navigator notes that "only 1 percent of the charities we evaluate have received at least 12 consecutive four-star evaluations, indicating that The Rotary Foundation outperforms other charities in America. This exceptional designation from Charity Navigator sets the Foundation apart from its peers and demonstrates to the public its trustworthiness."

This recognition comes on top of awards won in the past several years. Rotary's commitment to eradicating polio worldwide won Best Nonprofit Act in the Hero Awards of the One Billion Acts of Peace campaign, an international global citizens movement to tackle the world's most important issues. And the Association of Fundraising Professionals — the world's largest network of professional fundraisers — named The Rotary Foundation the World's Outstanding Foundation, honoring our long-term achievements.

It's easy to say that we belong to one of the greatest philanthropic organizations in the world. But the truth is, your Rotary Foundation is the best. So close out the year by giving the greatest gift of all to the world. Gimme five and show your support for The Rotary Foundation.

Have a merry Christmas and a happy new year!

Matchmaker, matchmaker

Rotary's Membership Leads program handles the introductions; the rest is up to your club

by NANCY SHEPHERDSON

Club officer installations, as important as they are, tend to have a sameness — announce names and titles, swear them in, applaud. But when I heard Susie Whipple's name announced in June, I could barely contain myself. "Hey, she's mine!" I wanted to shout. I had referred her to the Rotary Club of Barrington Breakfast, Illinois, through Rotary's Membership Leads program. That club took full advantage of the introduction and made her a member almost immediately; she was a board member less than a year later.

Membership Leads is the way that Rotary International takes online inquiries from people who are interested in Rotary and turns them into members. Anyone, anywhere in the world, can fill out a form at rotary.org/join that asks them for their contact information and the meeting location, day of the week, and time of day that would best fit their needs. This form provides prospective members with a lot of flexibility, but can also result in some challenging requests: towns with no clubs, or days when no nearby clubs meet.

Enter the Membership Leads coordinator. In the case of District 6440 in the Chicago suburbs, that's me. I call everyone who comes to us through our district's Membership Leads page (these prospects have already been screened by Rotary staff to make sure they meet Rotary's membership requirements). The calls are my way of letting every prospective member know that Rotary is welcoming and interested in them.

When she filled out the online form, Susie Whipple had named the town she lives in, which has no club. I could have simply referred her to the closest club, of course. But I called her first, and learned that she had already visited that club and had not had a great experience. Years ago, however, she did have a great experience studying in France with Rotary Youth Exchange, so she wanted to give Rotary another chance.

I recently asked her how she went from being a prospective member to a board member — and a volunteer on the district youth committee to help others find out about Rotary Youth Exchange — in such a short time. "I filled out a form on the Rotary website and then you called me," Susie remembers. "You and I had a fairly lengthy conversation about club options. You asked me about my preferences and my life." During that chat, Susie and I searched for nearby clubs on Rotary's online Club Finder. Because she is an independent wine consultant, her schedule is fairly flexible, but for various reasons the clubs on the list weren't working for her. As we spoke, I discovered that one of Susie's top priorities was being around friendly people. Coincidentally, we had arrived at the 19th club on the list: Bar-

Making people feel welcome and valued from the first phone call is the best way to persuade them to join you.

rington Breakfast. “You know, that’s the friendliest club in the area,” I told her. “Sold,” she said.

Her first visit to the club confirmed it was a great match. “I remember going just to check it out, and they were so open-armed,” she says. “They were very interested in my life, and so welcoming.” In fact, the 44-member club recognized her expertise and immediately asked her to be in charge of wine and beer at an upcoming fundraiser.

Her experience taught me something: The factors we think should dictate what club a person might prefer to join don’t always apply. The club Susie chose is 10 miles from her home; at least three others are closer. Even more challenging, the club meets at 7 a.m., which puts her in the middle of rush-hour traffic. “I have to get up at 5 a.m. to get there, but I’m glad to do it,” she says.

You would think that every club would be eager to follow up on the prospective members their district Membership Leads coordinators send them. That isn’t always the case — but the good news is that it isn’t hard to replicate the successful match between Susie and Barrington Breakfast.

Once a prospective member decides which club he or she would like to visit, I assign that person to that club, and an email about the referral goes out to the club president, secretary, and membership chair, as well as the district’s assistant governor. This referral email can be a little complex, so I also send a friendly reminder to the club president about each hot prospect, asking them to report their progress toward membership on the Manage Membership Leads page. (Unless clubs enter a report, the Membership Leads coordinator never knows what has happened to a given prospect. To find all your current and many previous leads, sign in to My Rotary, go to Club Administration under the Manage tab, and then click on Membership Leads.)

Clubs that convert the most leads to membership tend to be the clubs that assign someone, as soon as they receive a referral, to call the prospective member to invite them to an upcoming meeting or event.

In District 5060 (parts of British Columbia and Washington state), Rob Tidd is membership committee chair. His own club, the Rotary Club of Wenatchee Confluence, Washington — a combined noon club and evening satellite club — has added almost 30 members in the past year. He tries to guide his district’s clubs into actively following up on their leads.

“Most of my clubs will jump on the leads right away, but there is sometimes poor follow-up,” he says. “I’ve told them not to send an email to prospective members. Pick up the phone and call them to invite them to a meeting or event. They will be elated to get that contact from the club.” Tidd will follow up if he hasn’t heard from his clubs about leads they have received. “Some of the prospective members are still receptive,” he notes, “and just didn’t click with the first referral.”

Rotary International is working to make the Membership Leads program easier for clubs to use, with staff members visiting district coordinators to solicit our advice. Soon, clubs will also be able to enter their own leads into the RI system, which will allow clubs to keep track of the prospective members they have identified themselves.

You may believe that Membership Leads doesn’t really work for your club because you haven’t gained any new members through the program. In fact, whether it works is up to your club. In my experience, making people feel welcome and valued from the first phone call is the best way to persuade them to join you.

Perhaps your club has never received any leads through the program at all — at least none that you know about. Club presidents, secretaries, and membership chairs, as well as assistant district governors, have access to their Manage Membership Leads page, but you don’t have to be a club officer to get involved. If you are an outgoing person who likes to match people with opportunities, you could volunteer to help your club or district membership committee follow up with prospective members. Right now Stan Roelker, a member of the Rotary Club of Lincolnshire (Morning Star), Illinois, is making it possible for me to communicate with many more clubs than I would be able to on my own about their open leads.

To help grow Rotary, we need membership candidates of all kinds. And Membership Leads candidates are some of the hottest prospects of all: These are people who have taken the time to reach out to Rotary on their own. They might be looking for community service opportunities. They may want to hone their leadership abilities. Or perhaps they are interested in working to solve a specific problem and realize that Rotary might be able to help them do that. Bottom line: They are looking for something. It might just be your club. ■

Nancy Shepherdson, a freelance writer, is a member of the Rotary Club of Lake Zurich, Illinois, and has been in charge of Membership Leads for District 6440 since 2017.

A Dose of Positive Thoughts

MARICEL BORRROMEO-AMORES GML Editor -In-Chief, District 3860 President, RY 2017-2018

What is really staying positive? Personally, it is the ability to be confident amidst adversity and that you can hurdle any impediment along the way. It is easier said than done believe me particularly when you are engulfed with the negativity of the circumstances surrounding you.

As they say , you cannot control everything but the one thing you can control is your capacity to respond to it. So first step is to create an environment of positivity that is infectious even to the most negative person.

But most importantly, be among happy, positive and peace loving people that leaves little room for you to be unhappy or unloved.

*Stay positive and happy.
Work hard and don't give up hope.
Be open to criticism and keep learning.
Surround yourself with happy, warm and genuine people*

Tena Desae

I recalled in one of the shows of Oprah Winfrey on the subject of managing anger in a traffic situation... just think that the driver in front of you is your grandmother and the driver at your back is your mother...then you will think twice the next time you want to yell at that slowput driver.

Lastly, learn to be grateful at all times. I am not asking you to see the world in rose-colored glasses but to count on the things that you have right now that others do not have. The simple thought that you can breathe on your own without need of an oxygen tank beside you is more precious than whatever kind of misfortune you are going through. Stay happy, grateful, positive everyday!

"The more grateful I am,
the more beauty I see."

RACCF-CB Slumber Party for its 11th Founding Anniversary!

Last November 16, 2019, the club celebrated its 11th founding year through a slumber party held in Lahug, Cebu City. The club was founded on November 18, 2008 and since then we became true in our commitment to promoting service above self, in upholding the 4-way test in the things we think, say, and do, and in carrying out Rotary's advocacies. We look back with so much gratitude to all the people who have contributed so much to the club's successes throughout the years. Thank you to all the Past Presidents, old and current members, our ever supportive Rotarians, and to everyone who were and will be with us as we continue to help and lift others.

This was a night of celebration, gratitude, and fun. Thank you to all the members who joined the celebration especially to our Past Presidents who were so in the mood to play the Chubby Bunny, and to the members who happily answered to the club's fun trivia night.

Cheers to more years of service, team! Let's connect the world together.
