INVOCATION

Our heavenly Father, help us to remember that all your children are near and dear to you.

Wherever they may be, may we pray for those who need and desire our prayers. And we pray also for ourselves, but first putting ourselves, body, mind, and spirit in your healing presence. Hear now our silent prayers, O Lord. Amen

Christmas celebrations are incomplete if the RCCF family and friends are not present, and on this Christmas, I am grateful that we can celebrate it face to face. This Christmas, we must unite to thank God for protecting us and our loved ones during this pandemic and all other challenges that come our way.

Today, I am pleased to tell you that we passed with flying colors during the Governor's visit. Thank you all for every little bit of help you have supported our service projects.

I wish you a Merry Christmas filled with love and joy. I hope you have a peaceful and joyous holiday season. Christmas is a time to celebrate with those we love and to give thanks, and I sincerely hope that you have reasons to be grateful this year.

I appreciate what you do for the business. Allow me to express my gratitude to everyone for their help, collaboration, and compassion for the club. I humbly pray that you all continue to be dedicated to serving others under the RCCF's umbrella. Wishing you the best of health and happiness on this occasion of Christmas.

Hope for fighting a global scourge

While sitting with a group of Rotary leaders outside of Lusaka, Zambia, I ask a question: “How many of you have ever had malaria?” Every hand in the room goes up. They even begin to tell me about the first, second, or third time they experienced the disease, one of the main causes of death and sickness in many developing countries.

They are fortunate. They have access to medical treatment and lifesaving medicines. For the people of rural Zambia, their story is very different.

On a wooden bench in a small village, I sit with Timothy and his young son Nathan. With a camera crew capturing our conversation, he tells me of the time Nathan showed signs of malaria. He brought the boy to the nearby home of a community health worker, where Nathan quickly received medicines that in all likelihood saved his life.

Calmly, Timothy tells me about his other son's bout with the disease a few years earlier. He had to race that son to a medical clinic more than 5 miles away.

Riding a bike and carrying his child on his back, he tells me, he could feel his son's legs turn cold and then his little body go limp. As he finally entered the clinic, he screamed for help, but it was too late. The camera stops rolling, and we sit in silence. He begins to weep, and I hold him tightly. “I lost my son, I lost my son,” he says.

This story is all too familiar for the families we meet over the next few days. And yet there is hope. Partners for a Malaria-Free Zambia is Rotary's first Programs of Scale grant recipient, and it is saving lives. Across two provinces of Zambia, 2,500 volunteer health workers have been selected by their communities. They are trained to bring medical care closer to those who need it, and they are able to diagnose and treat malaria and other ailments. I invite you to turn to page 26 to read about Rotary partnerships that create lasting change.

TRUSTEE CHAIR'S MESSAGE

Our shared values

We all make hundreds if not thousands of decisions daily. Whenever I need to make an important decision, I remember the words of Roy Disney, who co-founded what became the Walt Disney Co.: "It's easy to make decisions when you know what your values are."

Each of us brings a set of personal values into our clubs. Rotary also unites by a set of core values — service, fellowship, diversity, integrity, and leadership — that guide our decisions and galvanize us to take action and, by doing so, change the world.

Another value is inextricable to Rotary: our giving spirit. From the club members who volunteer their time for service projects to the Rotary leaders in the Arch Klumph Society who sustain our Foundation, Rotary members are among the most generous people I have ever met. Combining our personal generosity with the countless ways Rotary affords us to give back makes us a global force for good.

In Rotary, we take it a step further. We also value good stewardship, planning, and sustainability. Not only do we give, but in Rotary we also give smart. We know that building sustainability into our projects means their impact will be felt over the long term.

In short, through the Foundation, your gifts keep on giving.

This is why donating to The Rotary Foundation is one of the most intelligent decisions you can make. You know that your gift will align with those values you hold dear and that it will be administered by your fellow Rotarians, who share those values.

It is quite an understatement to say that in giving to Rotary, we also receive. As someone who has been privileged to visit hundreds of Foundation projects around the world, I can tell you that the gift we get in return is priceless.

I hope you, too, will be as lucky I have been, to see the look of amazement on the face of a person at an eye clinic in Chennai, India, who now sees clearly. The proud smiles of Guatemalan children who learned to read thanks to Rotary. Or the grateful tears of a parent in Pakistan whose child has received two drops of polio vaccine. Then you will understand what I'm talking about. We are so fortunate to be able to serve humanity by supporting our Foundation.

During this season of giving, I thank you for your generosity to The Rotary Foundation and for all the ways you give to our great organization. Juliet and I extend our warmest holiday greetings to you all.

SERVICE ABOVE SELF

THE OBJECT OF ROTARY

The Object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

FIRST. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

SECOND. High ethical standards in business and professions, the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations, and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

THIRD. The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, business, and community life;

FOURTH. The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

THE FOUR-WAY TEST

Of the things we think, say, or do:

1. Is it the truth?
2. Is it fair to all concerned?
3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

ROTARIAN CODE OF CONDUCT

The following code of conduct has been adopted for the use of Rotarians:

As a Rotarian, I will

1. Act with integrity and high ethical standards in my personal and professional life
2. Deal fairly with others and treat them and their occupations with respect
3. Use my professional skills through Rotary to: mentor young people, help those with special needs, and improve people's quality of life in my community and in the world
4. Avoid behavior that reflects adversely on Rotary or other Rotarians
5. Help maintain a harassment-free environment in Rotary meetings, events, and activities, report any suspected harassment, and help ensure non-retaliation to those individuals that report harassment.

What people of action are reading

BY FRANK BURES

Whether addressing issues facing our communities or challenges that span the globe, Rotary members are problem-solvers. Thankfully, a host of excellent books came out this year that offer ideas, solutions, and inspiration for addressing those challenges, from countering emerging diseases to saving local businesses to bridging divides in our societies. We've put together a list of our favorites and present them here by Rotary area of focus. As you consider your next priority projects, we hope these books — besides being great reads — will help you plot a road map for action.

Promoting peace

Why We Fight: The Roots of War and the Paths to Peace
Christopher Blattman
 War can sometimes seem inevitable, but according to Christopher Blattman, who has studied conflicts around the world, it's not. There are five reasons, he argues, why a conflict turns violent, including "intangible incentives" and "unchecked interests." These are also some of the points of leverage mediators can use to keep the peace, whether working with nation-states, political parties, or street gangs.

Belonging: The Science of Creating Connection and Bridging Divides
Geoffrey L. Cohen
 It may be hard to imagine a time when things felt more divided than they do now. In Belonging, Geoffrey Cohen writes about research that shows how to foster connections between people, lessen polarization, fight racism, and boost education and health as we help others — and ourselves — feel that we belong.

Half American: The Epic Story of African Americans Fighting World War II at Home and Abroad
Matthew F. Delmont
 The story of World War II has been told many times. But the stories of the more than 1 million Black armed forces members are not as well known. In Half American, Matthew Delmont works to correct that, writing about segregated units that fought at Normandy, Iwo Jima, the Battle of the Bulge, and other places, as well as the people who filled vital roles throughout the military. Their contributions were essential to the Allied victory.

Fighting disease

How to Prevent the Next Pandemic

Bill Gates

Having been through a global pandemic, we have learned lessons about what was done right and what we could have been handled better. In his new book, Bill Gates uses these insights to sketch a plan for responding to the next global health threat. He examines solutions ranging from deploying early interventions to fast-tracking medicines to closing health gaps between rich and poor countries.

Breathless: The Scientific Race to Defeat a Deadly Virus

David Quammen

If there's one person who can be trusted to tell the story of the COVID-19 pandemic, it is the science writer David Quammen, known for exhaustive research and engaging storytelling. For Breathless, Quammen interviewed nearly 100 scientists, including some who saw the pandemic coming, others who worked to conquer it, and still others who are looking to manage what will probably be a "forever virus."

Necropolis: Disease, Power, and Capitalism in the Cotton Kingdom

Kathryn Olivarius

In the 1800s, yellow fever killed as many as 150,000 people in New Orleans. In Necropolis, Kathryn Olivarius looks at how the immunity of the survivors affected white and Black communities differently. That dynamic made disparities worse by means of what she calls "immunocapital" and "immunological discrimination." It's a fascinating look at the hidden consequences of disease in an unequal society.

Providing clean water and sanitation

The Worth of Water: Our Story of Chasing Solutions to the World's Greatest Challenge

Gary White and Matt Damon

For more than 30 years, Gary White has researched how to bring clean water to the one-third of people in the world without it. The solution he hit on was microcredit for families to upgrade their own systems. In 2009, White's Water Partners combined with Matt Damon's H2O Africa Foundation to form water.org. The Worth of Water tells the story of how they arrived at this approach, of the successes, and of the failures along the way.

Desperate: An Epic Battle for Clean Water and Justice in Appalachia

Kris Maher

In the annals of David vs. Goliath stories, Desperate deserves a prominent place. It tells the story of a lone lawyer in a rented hotel room battling West Virginia's most powerful coal company for seven years. Kris Maher documents Kevin Thompson's effort to uncover the ways Massey Energy made the local drinking water look, taste, and smell wrong, blamed for everything from kidney stones to cancer.

Saving mothers and children

War and Me: A Memoir
Faleeha Hassan

Poet Faleeha Hassan grew up in Iraq, where the background of her youth was an endless series of wars. Later she moved to the U.S. In War and Me, she recalls the lives of those she lost and those she did not, as she comes to terms with the fact that even in the U.S., far from home, the wars she lived through will stay with her forever.

Walking the Bowl: A True Story of Murder and Survival among the Street Children of Lusaka

Chris Lockhart and Daniel Mulilo Chama
There are many people in this world living on the margins. In Walking the Bowl, the authors take us into the street life of four memorable children in the capital of Zambia, as a mystery unfolds over the death of a child found under a pile of garbage in the city's largest landfill.

Growing local economies

Saving Main Street: Small Business in the Time of COVID-19

Gary Rivlin

Many small-business people live on the edge. With the lockdown and pandemic in 2020, the edge became a cliff. In Saving Main Street, Gary Rivlin tells the story of three people — the owners of a restaurant, a salon, and a gift shop — as they navigate the treacherous waters of doing business during the COVID-19 pandemic, detailing how they found survival, opportunity, and hope.

Cheap Land Colorado: Off-Gridders at America's Edge

Ted Conover

While some of us may have peered into the financial abyss, others have plunged into it. These are the people Ted Conover writes about in Cheap Land Colorado. For four years, Conover lived part time with and reported on an unusual community in a defunct subdivision, where you could buy a plot of land for less than $5,000. There these edge-dwellers lived cheaply, but not easily, as they built a community and struggled to survive in a patch of the high prairie with minimal services.

The School I Deserve: Six Young Refugees and Their Fight for Equality in America

Jo Napolitano

In Lancaster, Pennsylvania, six students from refugee families were refused entry into the city's main public high school and placed in an alternative school. Getting an education was key to life in their adopted land, with some leaving distressing experiences in countries including Sudan and Somalia. They sued the school district, and a conservative judge issued a shocking ruling that promises to open public schools in the same way Brown v. Board of Education did.

Imagine If ...: Creating a Future for Us All

Ken Robinson and Kate Robinson

Nearly 100 million people have listened to Ken Robinson's 2006 TED talk "Do Schools Kill Creativity?" When Robinson was diagnosed with cancer, he asked his daughter to finish his book on the subject. It is a rallying cry to restructure education to maximize our creative and cultural potential. Robinson died in 2020, leaving readers with these final words on the topic.

Protecting the environment

The Treeline: The Last Forest and the Future of Life on Earth

Ben Rawlence

The boreal forests that ring the top of our planet are on the move, marching north, as the climate warms. While researchers are trying to slow the trend, Ben Rawlence examines what the implications might be for the ecosystems of Siberia, Scandinavia, North America, and the world in The Treeline.

RegenesiS: Feeding the World without Devouring the Planet

George Monbiot

Quietly, a new agricultural revolution has begun. In RegenesiS, environmental writer George Monbiot shows how our food production systems can (and are starting to be) transformed into something more sustainable and productive than ever.

Embrace Fearlessly the Burning World: Essays

Barry Lopez

Barry Lopez is among the greatest 20th century nature writers, producing classics like Arctic Dreams and Of Wolves and Men. This essay collection represents his last work, some of it written shortly before he died in 2020 from a long illness. It's partly a memoir of his growing up and partly an account of his travels to the Antarctic and other places. All of it is a celebration and a call to action to save the natural world, from one of its most eloquent champions.

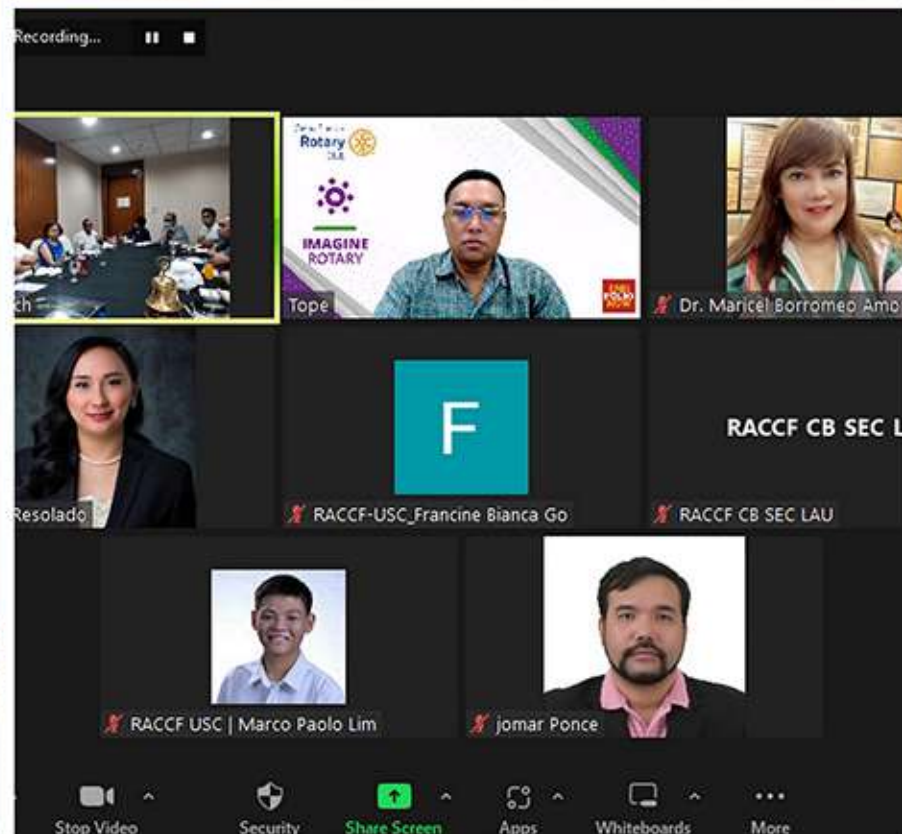

Fen, Bog and Swamp: A Short History of Peatland Destruction and Its Role in the Climate Crisis

Annie Proulx

Wetlands are one of the most overlooked and poorly understood parts of the natural world, yet their role in storing carbon and protecting our planet is profound. Annie Proulx, best known as a fiction writer, looks at the history of wetlands and their impact on human life — from harboring disease to helping fuel the Industrial Revolution. She warns of the grave dangers posed by the destruction of these vital ecosystems.

2023 RI CONVENTION

7 reasons to go to the Melbourne convention

By Bob Aitken

The Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre and the Polly Woodside ship-turned-museum.

1 You'll (re)connect with the Rotary family.

The last Rotary International Convention, in Houston, was proof there's nothing like connecting face to face. But for many Rotary members in the Asia-Pacific region, where COVID-19 restrictions complicated travel plans, Melbourne will be their first in-person convention in four years. With five districts (representing more than 250 Rotary and Rotaract clubs) across the state of Victoria hosting the event, it's sure to be a big reunion.

2 You'll explore the world — all in one place.

The convention is the best way to appreciate Rotary's global scale and reach, says Rebecca Fry, founding chair of RYLA (Rotary Youth Leadership Awards) Oceania and charter president of the Rotary Club of Social Impact Network, New South Wales. "The House of Friendship is a true festival of Rotary, showcasing our organization's fellowships, action groups, and community projects from around the world."

3 You'll discover cities within a city.

The coastal metropolis is known as the Australian capital of culture, food, sports, architecture, and theater. It's also a shopping mecca.

Mary Barry, chair of the Host Organization Committee, proudly notes Melbourne's regular recognition as one of the world's most livable cities. It is a family friendly place where visitors will feel instantly welcomed and at ease. "The city looks after its tourists with excellent public transport to unique attractions," says Roslyn Teirney, an assistant Rotary public image coordinator for Zone 8 and a member of the Rotary Club of North Hobart, Tasmania.

4 You'll be inspired.

Rotary conventions are all about an exchange of ideas. And each year's gathering brings you big name speakers to inspire, connect, and spur solutions to the world's toughest challenges. Just look at the list of some past speakers: Bill Gates, Justin Trudeau, Mikhail Gorbachev, and Princess Anne of the United Kingdom. "While still early to announce 2023 program highlights, be assured only outstanding international speakers will take part," says HOC Chair Barry.

5 You'll get your kangaroo fix.

Experience quintessential Australia with a visit to the Melbourne Zoo for a close-up and safe encounter with some of the world's most unusual, cute, and dangerous species — kangaroos, koalas, snakes, spiders, crocodiles, wombats, and platypuses. Just 13 miles northeast of Melbourne's central business district, the Gresswell Forest nature reserve provides spectacular sightings of eastern gray kangaroos, says Jennifer Scott, a past district governor and member of the Rotary Club of Central Blue Mountains.

Need more cuteness? Head to Phillip Island, 75 miles southeast of Melbourne, and check out the largest colony of little penguins in the world.

6 You'll feel energized.

Looking for a place to hang out with all your new Rotary friends once the day is over? Melbourne has endless options. Laura Telford, chair of the Rotaract Australia multidistrict information organization and member of the Rotaract Club of Canberra, describes Melbourne as another of the famous cities that "never sleep."

"Visitors will enjoy jumping on one of more than 475 trams that cover 250 kilometers [155 miles] of track to take you to every corner of this exciting city."

7 You'll want to see more of Australia.

While the distance can be a challenge in traveling to Melbourne, visitors may fly in to Sydney, Brisbane, Darwin, or Perth to make the most of a unique travel opportunity by seeing other parts of Australia. "The Great Barrier Reef, Uluru and the Red Centre, our tropical north, and the rugged coast of Western Australia all present memorable sightseeing experiences," Scott says.
