INVOCATION

As Rotarians, Lord grant that we may not so much seek;
To be consoled as to console;
To be understood as to understand;
To be loved as to love;
For it is in giving that we receive.
And it is in pardoning that we are pardoned. Amen.

NASUDNONG AWIT

Yutang tabunon, mutya nga masilakon. Putling bahandi, amo kang gimahal. Mithing gisimba, yuta’s mga bayani; Sa manlulupig, pagdapigan ka. Ang mga buntod mo ug lapyahan, sa langit mong bughaw. Nagahulad sa awit, lamdag sa kaliwat tang gawas. Silaw sa adlaw ug bituon sa nasudnong bandila. Nagatima-an nga buhion ta ang atong pagka-usa. Yutang maanyag, duyan ka sa pagmahal, landong sa langit ang dughan mo. Pakatam-ison namo nga nagatukaw kung mamatay man sa ngalan mo!

- THIRD: The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, business, and community life;
- FOURTH: The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

October 26, 2023

Hello everyone! It's amazing how time is really going by so fast, at least from my point of view, or maybe yours as well. We're at the cusp of entering November and heading into the last 2 months of the year. While it often brings to mind the craziness that comes with the holidays, it will definitely be complemented by our own club events as well.

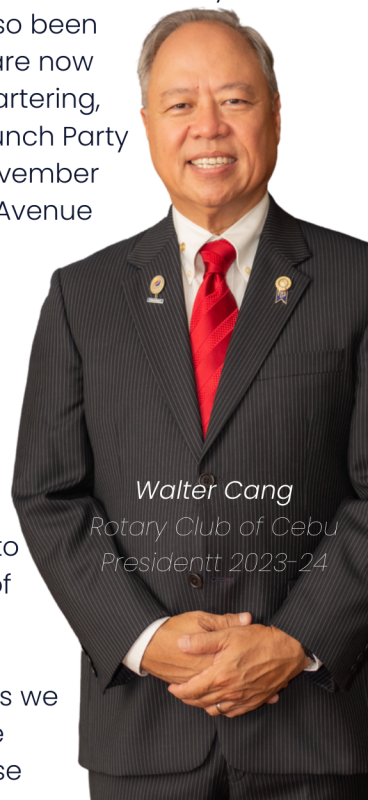

We're going to end this month on a frosty note, as we have the unique privilege of having this month's fellowship and drinks in a cold storage. If you think about this, I think it is so unique this is news-worthy! After all, one can never find a venue that offers such an environment and we're only able to enjoy this because of Bobong's hospitality and support of RCC. I hope you can all take time to join this very rare chance to enjoy beer in a truly unique place!

Many of us became Rotarians much later in life. Some younger, some older. Safe to say many of us probably didn't fully understand what it meant to be a Rotarian when we started this journey. There's nothing wrong with this as we earned our chops as we went along. But for the younger generation, joining a Rotaract club presents a great opportunity to learn leadership and service. The Rotaract Club of Cebu is a great example. They work hand in hand with RCC in symbiotic relationship and over the years, our support and mentoring have helped them develop a mindset of leadership and community service.

Last year, under the leadership of IPP Hector, we sponsored a school based Interact Club of Cebu St. Benedict Childhood Education Center (IACC-SBCEC). Early this month, we received word from RI that our sponsorship of the Interact Club of Cebu, community-based (IACC-CB) has also been approved. Plans are now afoot for their Chartering, Induction and Launch Party happening on November 25 at the 38 Park Avenue showroom.

More than just a footnote in our club's history, these 2 Interact clubs represents our club continuing effort to foster the ideals of Rotary. This is significant and unprecedented as we are now given the opportunity expose impressionable and young minds into the meaning of service and caring. Through Interact, they are taught to look at ways to address the root cause of community issues and hone their leadership skills, inspiring them to make lasting change and setting them on a path for a lifetime of service.

My fellow Rotarians, I cannot overstate the importance of these developments and I ask you to join me in the coming weeks as we hope to engage and mentor the 2 Interact clubs that bear our name. Let us not squander this opportunity to not only serve our community, but to ensure the next generation will follow in our steps and even exceed our own service and giving achievements.

With the recent induction of Baby Rtms. Darren Park and Jonathan Uy, our membership now sits at 68 strong. Based on the expressions of intent and interest received to date, we will likely exceed 70 late this year or early 2024. While I am thrilled at the growth we have achieved and the likely reduction of our club's media age, I am also mindful that we need to emphasize on the meaning of becoming a member of RCC. As I have stated in the past, there are many Rotary clubs in our District but there will only be one RCC. This is not to say we are special. It just means we behave, think, act differently from other clubs. Our DNA differs and our culture is never the same.

Hence, when a prospect becomes a candidate, and a candidate becomes a member, it is incumbent upon us, the leaders, and members to help them learn what it means to be a Rotarian from RCC. If there can be one trait that I know defines us, it is this: We are generous with our time, talent, and treasure. It can be just 1 of the 3, or 2 or even all 3. May this trait be passed to those new in our rank, much as they had been bequeathed to us by others.

A few more important dates to mark on your calendar this November – the Interact Club of Cebu Community Based will be undertaking a tree planting activity on Saturday the 11th. More details will be shared as soon as they are made available. Several RCC members will be joining them as part of our effort to nurture and help our newest members of the family.

The following day Sunday the 12th, will be our Coral Reef Rehab activity at Jpark Island Resort courtesy of Dir. Brian Connelly. Our event chair is Rtn. Joey Suaco and this is open to all members who wish to scuba, snorkel, or just help clean up the shoreline.

A few of us are flying to Davao to attend this year's TRF Night on Nov. 18. Our own PP Stephen who is now the Dist. Rotary Fund Raising Chair is working hard to get this event up and running so we're headed there to support him on this gargantuan effort.

Lastly, RCC's 91st Anniversary party will be on Nov. 24 at Casino Español. This informal and relaxing members-only event is being planned by PE Shige so there's no doubt we will have great food and drinks!

HISTORY OF POLIO VACCINATION

A crippling and life-threatening disease

Polio is a highly infectious disease, mostly affecting young children, that attacks the nervous system and can lead to spinal and respiratory paralysis, and in some cases death.

Polio has existed since prehistoric times – ancient Egyptian images show children walking with canes, with withered limbs characteristic of the disease.

While it affected children around the world for millennia, the first known clinical description of polio, by British doctor Michael Underwood, was not until 1789, and it was formally recognized as a condition in 1840 by German physician Jakob Heine.

In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, frequent epidemics saw polio become the most feared disease in the world. A major outbreak in New York City in 1916 killed over 2000 people, and the worst recorded US outbreak in 1952 killed over 3000.

Many who survived the disease faced lifelong consequences. Deformed limbs meant they needed leg braces, crutches or wheelchairs, and some needed to use breathing devices like the iron lung, an artificial respirator invented for treatment of polio patients.

By the mid-20th century, the poliovirus could be found all over the world and killed or paralysed over half a million people every year. With no cure, and epidemics on the rise, there was an urgent need for a vaccine.

A breakthrough occurred in 1949, when poliovirus was successfully cultivated in human tissue by John Enders, Thomas Weller and Frederick Robbins at Boston Children's Hospital. Their pioneering work was recognized with the 1954 Nobel Prize.

Not long afterwards, in the early 1950s, the first successful vaccine was created by US physician Jonas Salk. Salk tested his experimental killed-virus vaccine on himself and his family in 1953, and a year later on 1.6 million children in Canada, Finland and the USA.

The results were announced on 12 April 1955, and Salk's inactivated polio vaccine (IPV) was licensed on the same day. By 1957, annual cases dropped from 58 000 to 5600, and by 1961, only 161 cases remained.

Salk was committed to equitable access to his vaccine, and understood that elimination efforts would not work without universal low- or no-cost vaccination.

Six pharmaceutical companies were licensed to produce IPV, and Salk did not profit from sharing the formulation or production processes.

In a 1955 interview, when asked who owned the patent for IPV, he replied: "Well, the people, I would say. There is no patent. Could you patent the sun?"

A second type of polio vaccine, the oral polio vaccine (OPV) was developed by physician and microbiologist Albert Sabin.

Sabin's vaccine was live-attenuated (using the virus in weakened form) and could be given orally, as drops or on a sugar cube.

With the Salk vaccine in wide use by the late 1950s, United States interest in testing this new kind of vaccine was low.

Hilary Koprowski had carried out the first test of a live-attenuated vaccine on humans in 1950, and further trials took place in what was then the Belgian Congo (a territory now largely covered by the Democratic Republic of the Congo).

Like Salk, Sabin tested his experimental vaccine on himself and his family; but he had to go further afield for larger-scale trials.

After a team of Russian virologists visited his lab in 1956, Sabin travelled to Leningrad and Moscow to work with them later that year.

He struck up a longstanding collaboration with Mikhail P Chumakov, who was also responsible for tests of the Salk vaccine in the Soviet Union, and Chumakov carried out initial tests of the live-attenuated vaccine using a seed virus that Sabin had provided.

Trials carried out in the Soviet Union, on 20 000 children in 1958 and 10 million children in 1959, and in Czechoslovakia, on over 110 000 children from 1958 to 1959, proved the vaccine was safe and effective.

Independent review of the trials for the World Health Organization by United States specialist Dorothy Horstmann endorsed their findings – a crucial validation in the time of the Cold War.

The ease of administering the oral vaccine made it the ideal candidate for mass vaccination campaigns. Hungary began to use it in December 1959 and Czechoslovakia in early 1960, becoming the first country in the world to eliminate polio.

In 1962, Cuba began to administer the OPV in nationwide immunization programmes. OPV had an added benefit that paved the road to eradication. While IPV protected the vaccinated child, it did not stop the poliovirus from spreading between children.

📱 +63.917.779.9194

OPV, on the other hand, interrupted the chain of transmission, meaning that this was a powerful vaccine to stop polio outbreaks in their tracks.

In 1979 Rotary International started a multi-year project to immunize 6 million children in the Philippines.

In 1988, the World Health Assembly passed a resolution to eradicate polio – to achieve its permanent reduction to zero, with no risk of reintroduction – and in the same year, the Global Polio Eradication Initiative (GPEI) was launched.

The Assembly's work towards this milestone was complemented by the efforts of Rotary International, who wanted to keep the momentum of smallpox eradication going to ensure that no child was unnecessarily paralysed for life ever again.

Immense contributions by individual countries were combined with international initiative and assistance, with WHO working to support the global collaboration.

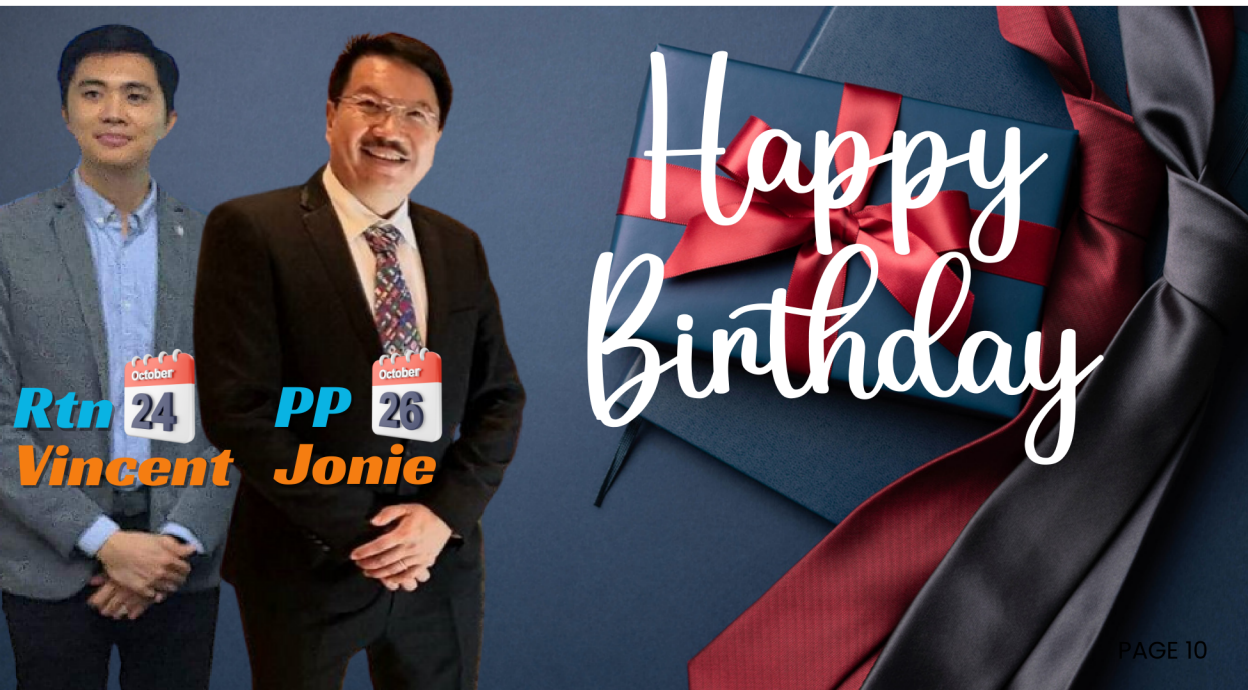

With WHO's assistance, vaccine production was also expanded globally, with significant capacity developed in countries including India and Indonesia. In 1995, mass vaccination campaigns took place in China and India.

National Immunization Days were coordinated in 19 European and Mediterranean countries in 1995, and in 23 African countries in 2004. By 1994, polio had been eliminated from the Americas, and by 2000 the Western Pacific was polio free.

By 2003, polio remained endemic in only 6 countries – and by 2006, that number had dropped to 4.

The 21st century saw further advances, with cases brought down by more than 99% worldwide in less than 2 decades.

WHO's South-East Asia region was certified polio-free in 2014, the African region in 2020, and the Eastern Mediterranean region has restricted the virus's reach to just a handful of districts.
