CLEAN-UP ACTIVITIES:

Educating the Community is Better than Doing it Ourselves

by NILO RUPERTO
Past President
Rotary Club Dumaguete City

As rural, urban and coastal areas face increasing threats from pollution, climate change, and over-exploitation, clean-up activities play a vital role for better ecological and public health. It is laudable for a service-oriented organization, like the Rotary Club, to initiate clean-up activities in identified communities. But let us explore the significance of these activities when we do it ourselves or when we educate the community to do it themselves.

Both approaches - doing it ourselves and educating the community - are helpful in fostering environmental cleanliness. But educating the public better promotes sustainable healthy practices.

Directly engaging in clean-up activities allows for immediate results, such as cleaner beaches, schools, parks or neighborhoods. Taking the initiative can inspire others to join in, creating a ripple effect that indirectly encourages community participation. But cost wise, doing it ourselves is far more expensive in terms of transportation in going to the targeted community and the other expenses such as the fellowships after the activity. Even more important is the fact that we cannot do the activity on a regular basis. Isolated clean-up activities in a particular community may be valuable in addressing immediate concerns but often act as a temporary fix. The immediate results are merely temporary and are easily reversed in a day or two. There is no sustainability at all.

On the other hand, teaching the community members about pollution, climate change and waste management can directly lead to more lasting behavioral changes that benefit the environment over time. Because without understanding the root causes of why pollution occurs, communities may continue to engage in harmful practices. For example, littering can stem from a lack of awareness about the consequences of waste disposal. Equipping individuals with knowledge will encourage them to take action, instilling in them a sense of responsibility and the realization that they themselves are the primary beneficiaries of a clean environment and healthy community. The clean-up become a part of their daily lives, and they can do it in their neighborhood at no transportation cost at all.

Educating the public can create lasting change and directly encourage individuals to be involved and take action themselves - as the need arises.

It is just like what we are currently doing in our drive against Dengue. We teach and encourage the community to plant Citronella themselves, rather than planting the Citronella ourselves. In clean-up activities, I think educating the community the importance of a clean and healthy environment is better than doing the clean-up activity ourselves. What do you think?

THE ROTARY HYMN

I want to be a Rotarian for the world
 Make the Rotary flag as a flag of peace unfurled;
 I shall serve my community,
 Help achieve universal unity
 Through Rotary, I shall dedicate my all,
 World understanding shall be my cherished goal.
 REFRAIN: With the Four Way Test
 I'll pursue my quest
 And if I, in a way help obtain
 Peace in the world
 I shall not have lived in vain.

I'll observe service above self,
 Lend a hand to all who need my help;
 I'll get my spouse to involve in Rotary
 And in Rotary ways I will train my family.
 (REFRAIN)
 Build a bridge for tomorrow's youth,
 Strengthened by nothing but the truth
 Let's join our hands, there's no reason to divide.
 We shall all understand, while the good Lord is our guide. (REFRAIN)
 CODA: Peace be achieved,
 We shall not have lived in vain.

09202024 - RCDN 8th Regular Meeting at Royal Suites Inn presided by Pres. Rodelio Solon.

MESSAGE:

a superficial illusion, a mere triviality at best. So, I pondered. Instead of looking for ways to fail, we can always look for ways to succeed. Instead of saying that it cannot be done, we can always look for ways so that it can be done.

On one of the Facebook Reels, I saw a working man lifting from the ground a rectangular container filled with fruit products, and load it up on a delivery truck, using his chin and his breast. This man has lost both his arms up to his shoulder. I was fascinated and inspired by the seemingly effortless work of an armless man. It made me realize that our own personal hurdles in life which we consider to be insurmountable, is actually nothing but a

Of course, I am not saying that we can always find a solution to every problem there is. Sometimes, a solution may not be feasible at all. What I am trying to emphasize is that we should approach everything in a positive way. If face with a seemingly hard problem, look on the bright side. We Rotarians can still do good things even when our hands are tied up.
