INVOCATION

Lord, Rotarians world-wide acknowledge your power, and your expectation that we be of service to mankind.

Let us renew our obligation to fulfill that expectation, just as the return of spring renews growth in the world around us, with a new commitment to help others in our community, our nation, and our world. With the power, influence, and wealth that we as leaders in this place most certainly have, let us always remember that these are a blessing from you, and that charity is more fulfilling than decadence, and the

PRES. PATRICK S. CAPILI
Club President, RY 2019-2020

It has been a crazy busy Kadayawan week that passed! However, we were still able to perform our RCED duties such as our Feeding Fund Distribution to the 6 Beneficiary Schools. Although I was not able to attend the last 2 regular Tuesday meetings, due to work-related issues, I heard that Rotarian Karl Reta did a very inspirational classification talk last week. I definitely missed that exciting talk. We are getting ready for another interesting meeting today with the General Manager of Apo Agua, an Aboitiz Group company.

Regarding Fellowship, due to the hectic Kadayawan schedule and a few unforeseen events, we will postpone the scheduled celebration of my birthday as well as VP Ross and Rotarian Karl. Announcements will be made.

Happy Kadayawan!

DISTRICT ACTIVITIES

For the past few weeks we have been discussing about the different positions found in a Rotary District. We move on to activities of or as a district.

District and Rotary Club Cooperation With Other Organizations Districts and Rotary clubs may support and cooperate with other organizations in projects and activities, provided that:

- 1) Such initiatives are consistent with Rotary ideals and purposes
- 2) The club or district membership concerned approves the cooperative activity
- 3) The cooperation involves direct participation and responsibility by a Rotary committee appointed by a club president or governor designated for the duration of the activity, with provision for annual review
- 4) Club or district autonomy as an independent organization is preserved
- 5) The club or district obtains appropriate recognition, to the extent that it is warranted by the nature of the cooperation, in the interest of keeping the public informed about Rotary and its service activities
- 6) The club or district and the cooperating organization share the responsibility of publicizing the nature of the joint project
- 7) The club or district does not accept an ongoing obligation to participate
- 8) The club or district does not accept an ongoing financial obligation to the other organization, but instead provides opportunities for Rotary clubs in a district to review and decide whether to continue supporting the projects or activities at district conferences or by other appropriate

- means
- 9) The club or district does not become a member of the cooperating organization
 - 10) The activity or cooperative agreement entered into by a club or district does not in any way bind RI to the activity or agreement.
 - 11) Lists of clubs or Rotarians are not furnished to the other organization except to meet legal requirements of government agencies or by the Assent of the Board or its Executive Committee

Policies on Sponsorship and Cooperative Relationships

Rotary clubs, Rotary districts, and other Rotary Entities must not accept a cooperative relationship that does any of the following:

-  Conflicts with Rotary's ethical and humanitarian values
-  Undermines internationally recognized standards for human rights
-  Supports the use of addictive or harmful products and activities including but not limited to alcohol (when inappropriate in a specific cultural context), tobacco, gambling, and weapons or other armaments
-  Unfairly discriminates based on race, ethnicity, gender, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, or birth or other status

The RI Board has made a commitment to the careful development of sponsorship, partnership, and strategic alliance opportunities for clubs, districts, and other Rotary Entities. This includes developing

POV

POINT OF VIEW

DIR. RAPHAEL E. APOLINARIO VI
Editor in Chief, RED Chronicle

One = One

During one of the “make-up” meetings I attended, I found it intriguing that the room was “silent” and that no one was really talking to each other. Being a guest, I just quietly sat in the corner and ate my lunch... but you could feel there was tension in the room.

I had been 20 minutes late so I missed the first part of the meeting. Listening, I was able to piece things together... apparently, in not so kind words, one member lost his temper and told another member off because the latter was known only to complain and was a constant “NO Show” during the execution of projects. This story came into my mind when the situation was explained to me:

“Once, there was a farmer who regularly sold butter to a baker. One day, the baker decided to weigh the butter to see if he was getting the exact amount that he asked for. He found out that he wasn't, so he took the farmer to court.

The judge asked the farmer if he uses any measure to weigh the butter. The farmer replied, 'Your Honor, I'm primitive. I don't have a proper measure, but I do have a scale.'

The judge replied, “Then how do you weigh the butter?”

The farmer replied; “Your Honor, long before the baker started buying butter from me, I have been buying a pound loaf of bread from him. Every day, when the baker brings the bread, I put it on the scale and give him the same weight in butter. If anyone is to be blamed, it's the baker.’

Our take : In life, you get what you give.

Bits & Pieces

How to ride safely in the rain

The rainy season is upon us. Please share this article with your friends and staff who opt to use motorcycles. Stay visible and be extra cautious.

1. Before your ride

Inspect Your Bike

Before leaving home, it's prudent to check your bike first to make sure it can handle some water on the road.

First, check you tires and make sure there's enough tread depth and it's at the right pressure. If your tread depth is less than 1.5 mm in the center, it's time to change your tire. Shallow tread depths cannot channel water and will cause you to hydroplane. Tire pressure can vary with each bike so be sure to check your manual for the recommended pressure.

Second, check your bike's oil and brake fluid level. Make sure they're properly topped up. In addition, observe the underside of your bike for fluids dripping onto the ground. This is not only dangerous for you but for other bikers as well. Oil, when mixed with rain water can become a very slippery concoction.

Third, ensure your lights (headlights, taillights, and turn signals) are all working. Visibility is drastically reduced in the rain so you can keep them on and be visible to other vehicles.

Finally, check your windshield and visor. Take the time to clean them and even apply a coat of antifog before you leave. These will help ensure clear vision if it suddenly rains.

Bring the right gear

If you've invested in rain gear, it's more prudent to bring it along during this season. Many shops offer various kinds of rain gear that can be stored in a bag you can bring along. Be sure to also bring waterproof covers or extra plastic bags to protect your bag itself or other sensitive items.

While raincoats (kapote) are a cheap and easy solution, they can be particularly dangerous for bikes driven by chains. The edges can easily snag on the chain, causing your rear wheel to lock up and lead to an accident. They can also unintentionally cover headlights and tail lights while you're riding. We recommend investing in proper rain jackets and pants as these are the best at keeping water out.

Finally, if you have the space on your bike or bag, consider bringing a set of extra clothes. While several rain jackets can effectively keep water out for some period of time, with our kind of torrential rain, water will seep in eventually. Having an extra set of clothes will give you something dry to change into when at your destination. It also pays to be in the habit of wearing reflective gear. These can make you even more visible to other vehicles in adverse conditions.

Plan your route

By now, you're already familiar with the areas that are likely to flood. As such, have alternate routes planned just in case your regular route becomes flooded and impassable. This will help you avoid the heavy traffic these flash floods typically cause and help you avoid any delays.

2. While riding

Wait it out if you can

The first few minutes of a downpour are usually the most dangerous. Oil doesn't mix with water so the first few minutes of rain brings the oil on the road to the surface, making the road slippery. Some dust and debris can also mix with the water to become more slippery. If you can spare the time, wait a few minutes for the water to wash the oil and debris off the road. If you can spare the time, wait it out in a dry area if you can.

Don't stop your bike under a pedestrian or vehicle overpass or MRT station. You will block the road and cause more traffic. Find a suitable shaded area out of the main road and wait there. If there is lightning, get off the road immediately. Lightning may only seek out tall objects, but that electricity has to go somewhere in the ground. If everything is wet, including yourself, your tires aren't going to insulate you from electricity traveling to the ground.

Reduce your speed

If you can't spare the time to wait it out, be cautious at the very least. Turn on your headlights. Don't turn on your hazard lights. Wear your reflective vest OVER your rain gear. When riding in the rain, do it at a slower pace than usual. This lets you spot obstacles further ahead and gives you time to cautiously avoid them.

Braking in wet weather conditions is quite different. It's very easy to unintentionally lock up your tires in these conditions. Brake more cautiously and progressively. Suddenly pulling on the brake lever will very likely lead to a lockup and an accident. Brake earlier and give yourself more distance to stop. If you don't have ABS, while braking, apply a lighter application to the front brakes. It's better to risk locking up the rear wheels than the front.

Ride vertical

The center of a motorcycle's tire has the deepest and thickest tread to channel water. Take advantage of this by riding as vertical as possible. Bank or lean as little as possible to maintain that grip and avoid low siding. Avoid staying in the center of the lane. Instead, ride behind another vehicle's tire tracks. These lines are easier to see in the rain. In addition, they have already repelled some of the water away from the road and will give you better traction.

Keeping these tips in mind will help you ride better in the rain and avoid any accidents. So get the right gear, make sure your bike is properly maintained and keep your guard up, especially during this rainy season.
