THE OBJECT OF THE ROTARY

The Object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

FIRST: The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

SECOND: High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

THIRD: The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, business, and community life;

FOURTH: The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

ROTARY INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE

Happy 115th birthday, fellow Rotarians and members of the family of Rotary!

Much has changed in the world since 1905. Then, the global population was roughly 1.7 billion. Today, it is 7.7 billion. There were 5 telephones per 100 people in the United States 115 years ago. In 2020, it is estimated that 96 percent of the U.S. population has a cellphone — and both China and India have more than a billion cellphones in use.

In the 115 years since Rotary was founded, seemingly everything has changed except Rotary values. We began, and remain, committed to fellowship, integrity, diversity, service, and leadership. While our Service Above Self motto dates to 1911, the ethos behind those words had already been ingrained by Rotary's founders.

As the pace of change worldwide continues to accelerate, the need for Rotary service is greater than ever. It's one thing to read about service projects, quite another to see them in action and to see the grateful faces of people who have benefited from them. Rotary projects change lives and connect the world. And over the past year, I have seen some amazing Rotary projects in action.

Gay and I visited Japan's Fukushima prefecture last year. Few places in the world have had to deal with the kind of devastation that visited Fukushima in March 2011, when a tsunami touched off by an earthquake led to disaster at a nuclear power plant. But the story of Fukushima today is not one of destruction; it is one of hope and renewal. Rotary grants have helped improve access to medical and mental health care for victims of the disaster and reduced the isolation of these communities by sharing the experiences of people from other parts of the world who have also recovered from disasters. Our grants have also helped to foster self-motivation and encourage sustainable long-term community recovery across the region.

In Shanghai, I learned about the Careers in Care program. This helps migrant workers fill the need for skilled professionals in elder care facilities. After taking a course, trainees receive certification to boost their employment prospects, while the care industry benefits from an expanded talent pool. Rotary projects like this are successful because they address a local need, and they have the potential to attract local government funding to sustain their impact.

And in Guatemala, Gay and I went to Sumpango. Global grants there provide mechanical cows to produce soy milk; an improved water distribution system; water filters; clean compost latrines; family gardens; support for income generation; and training in WASH and literacy programs. The food items sold there not only provide nutrition to women and children, but also create a source of income for local women.

In every area of focus, and in every part of the world, Rotary projects are improving lives and helping communities adapt in a time of rapid change. As we celebrate another great year for Rotary, let us rededicate ourselves to strengthening the connections that make our service so impactful. We will make lives better as Rotary Connects the World.

WRONG SAUCE

After I paid for my items in an adorable Italian shop, the salesperson smiled and said "Grazie," Italian for "thank you." My Italian isn't very good, but I knew that the Italian word for "you're welcome" was the same as the name of a spaghetti sauce. So I confidently replied "Ragù!" and walked out of the store.

A few blocks later, it hit me: I had the wrong spaghetti sauce. "You're welcome" is prego.

PRAY FOR GOOD FOOD

A husband and wife were dining at a 5-star restaurant. When their food arrived, the husband said: "Our food has arrived! Let's eat!"

His wife reminded him: "Honey, you always say your prayers at home before your dinner!"

Her husband replied: "That's at home, my dear. Here the chef knows how to cook..."

DISAPPOINTING MOVIE

My mother and I suffered through an overlong, confusing movie at an art theater. Apparently we were not the only dissatisfied patrons. Walking back to our car afterward, we overheard a man complain to his wife, "We left the dog home alone for that?"

THE OTHER WORD FOR ASPIRIN

My memory is getting so bad, I asked the pharmacist, "Do you have any Acetylsalicylic acid?"

"You mean aspirin?" asked the pharmacist.

"That's it! I can never remember that word."

GOOD NEWS, BAD NEWS

A doctor told his patient, "There's good news and bad news. The bad news is, you have partial short-term memory loss."

The patient said, "Oh no, Doctor. What's the bad news?"

ANGRY GIRLFRIEND

A man came through my lane at the grocery store with a jug of wine and a bouquet of roses. But before paying, he set the two items aside and said, "I'll be right back." He ran off, only to return a minute later with a second jug of wine and another bouquet of roses.

"Two girlfriends?" I asked. "No," he said. "Just one really angry one."

BECOMING A CEO

The CEO of a large corporation was giving advice to a junior executive. "I was young, married, and out of work," he lectured. "I took the last nickel I had and bought an apple. I polished it and sold it for a dime. The next day I bought two apples, polished them, and sold them for ten cents each."

"I see," said the junior executive. "You kept reinvesting your money and grew a big business." "No," said the CEO. "Then my wife's father died and left me a fortune."

GEORGE?!

It was World War II—the front—and we were on high alert. Around midnight, I noticed movement behind a bush. Rather than fire a shot, I shouted out the first half of the password: "George!" I waited for whoever it was to prove he was an American and reply with the countersign, "Marshall." Instead, silence. "George!!" Again, no reply. I lifted up my rifle and gave it one last try: "George!!!" An angry voice finally replied, "My name ain't George!"

Things you should know about Novel coronavirus 2019

No, antibiotics do not work against viruses, only bacteria.

The new coronavirus (2019-nCoV) is a virus and, therefore, antibiotics should not be used as a means of prevention or treatment.

However, if you are hospitalized for the 2019-nCoV, you may receive antibiotics since bacterial co-infection is possible.

#Coronavirus

Are antibiotics effective in preventing and treating the new coronavirus?

To date, there is no specific medicine recommended to prevent or treat the new coronavirus (2019-nCoV).

However, those infected with the virus should receive appropriate care to relieve and treat symptoms, and those with severe illness should receive optimized supportive care. Some specific treatments are under investigation, and will be tested through clinical trials.

WHO is helping to accelerate research and development efforts with a range of partners.

#Coronavirus

Are there any specific medicines to prevent or treat the new coronavirus?

Things you should know about Novel coronavirus 2019

No. Sesame oil does not kill the new coronavirus.

There are some chemical disinfectants that can kill the 2019-nCoV on surfaces. These include bleach/chlorine-based disinfectants, ether solvents, 75% ethanol, peracetic acid and chloroform.

However, they have little or no impact on the virus if you put them on the skin or under your nose. It can even be dangerous to put these chemicals on your skin.

Does putting on sesame oil block the new coronavirus from entering the body?

#2019nCoV

People of all ages can be infected by the new coronavirus (nCoV-2019).

Older people, and people with pre-existing medical conditions (such as asthma, diabetes, heart disease) appear to be more vulnerable to becoming severely ill with the virus.

WHO advise people of all age to take steps to protect themselves from the virus, for example by following good hand hygiene and good respiratory hygiene.

Does the new coronavirus affect older people, or are younger people also susceptible?

PRESIDENT'S TIME

Prexy Joshua Salazar

Good evening, fellow Midtowners welcome to our 19th regular meeting.

Last February 4, 2020, St. Gemma's kitchen, launched their nutritional feeding program with the aim of providing nutritional assistance towards targeted population of malnourished children within selected communities. With it, we have collaborated with the organization to provide resources in continuing this noble program; we started at Purok 19, Zone 13, Brgy. Lagao with a population of 24 children and will continue to monitor, feed and check on their health for the next 6 months. This program will be conducted every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. I am hoping for your support during the implementation of the activities. Also, I would like to remind everyone that Discon is scheduled on March 5 to 7 and registration rate is P6, 000.00 per Rotarian and P3, 000.00 per spouse. The host city will be Cebu.

Thank you.

Things you should know about Novel coronavirus 2019

No. There is no evidence that using mouthwash will protect you from infection with the new coronavirus. Some brands of mouthwash can eliminate certain microbes for a few minutes in the saliva in your mouth. However, this does not mean they protect you from 2019-nCoV infection.

#2019nCoV

Can gargling mouthwash protect you from infection with the new coronavirus?

Garlic is a healthy food that may have some antimicrobial properties. However, there is no evidence from the current outbreak that eating garlic has protected people from the new coronavirus (2019-nCoV)

#2019nCoV

Can eating garlic help prevent infection with the new coronavirus?

Things you should know about Novel coronavirus 2019

No. Vaccines against pneumonia, such as pneumococcal vaccine and Haemophilus influenza type B (Hib) vaccine, do not provide protection against the new coronavirus.

The virus is so new and different that it needs its own vaccine. Researchers are trying to develop a vaccine against 2019-nCoV, and WHO is supporting their efforts.

Although these vaccines are not effective against 2019-nCoV, vaccination against respiratory illnesses is highly recommended to protect your health.

#2019nCoV

Do vaccines against pneumonia protect you against the new coronavirus?

No. There is no evidence that regularly rinsing the nose with saline has protected people from infection with the new coronavirus.

There is some limited evidence that regularly rinsing the nose with saline can help people recover more quickly from the common cold. However, regularly rinsing the nose has not been shown to prevent respiratory infections.

#2019nCoV

Can regularly rinsing your nose with saline help prevent infection with the new coronavirus?

Novel Coronavirus (2019-nCoV) advice for the public: Myth busters

World Health Organization

Yes, it is safe. People receiving packages from China are not at risk of contracting the new coronavirus.

From previous analysis, we know coronaviruses do not survive long on objects, such as letters or packages.

Is it safe to receive a letter or a package from China?

#2019nCoV

At present, there is no evidence that companion animals / pets such as dogs or cats can be infected with the new coronavirus. However, it is always a good idea to wash your hands with soap and water after contact with pets. This protects you against various common bacteria such as E. coli and Salmonella that can pass between pets and humans.

Can pets at home spread the new coronavirus (2019-nCoV)?
