TREASURER'S REPORT

RTN. MARICEL MADRONA

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

DR. JULITA L. COGO
RCPI PRESIDENT RY 2020-2021

Greetings!

As we look back the year 2020, we know that it was a year of great challenge for us but we didn't stop working, we didn't stop doing services to our fellowmen despite the pandemic.

We have many more projects lined up this year 2021 and am certain we'll be able to complete these with your all out support my fellow transforming rotarians of the Rotary Club of Panglao Island.

For this month, we partnered with the local government unit of Panglao, thru the municipal health office, in conducting flu vaccination activities to the ten barangays of the municipality of Panglao.

Since there are RCPI members who are in the medical field, we selflessly extended our services during the administration of the flu vaccine to residents aged 20 years old and above.

As we familiarize ourselves with the new normal, it is important that we take extra precaution and focus on our health. With this in mind and as one of the advocacy of RCPI, we will continue to adopt and implement programs which will maintain the quality of our health care. With the continued support of our fellow rotarians, we shall carry on with the rest of our projects this year.

Thank you

President Dr. Julita L. Cogo at WORK!!

Happy Birthday!

Straw User

I told my friend that he really shouldn't be using a straw and he replied, "Yeah, I know, I know, it's bad for the environment."

I said, "Sure, there's that..."

"But it's just a really weird way of eating spaghetti."

HEALTH TIPS

5 tips to help you stay healthy this winter

1. Clean your hands. Practicing good hand hygiene isn't fancy or novel, but it works, says Starnbach. Washing with simple soap and water, and using an alcohol-based hand sanitizer when soap and water aren't available, can help keep you from transporting germs from an infected surface to your eyes, nose, or mouth.

2. Eat healthy and exercise. Prime your immune system to effectively fight disease by keeping your body healthy. Follow a nutrient-rich diet that includes lots of fruits, vegetables, and whole grains. Also, exercise regularly, and get enough sleep. "Being in good health helps us to resist infectious diseases," says Starnbach.

3. Don't skip doctor visits. Some people may fear getting exposed to illness, so they decide to avoid routine screenings and doctor's appointments. But they may be putting themselves at higher risk by doing so, says Starnbach.

"Doctors' offices are now equipped for routine visits in a coordinated and safe manner," he says. Whether you show up in person or visit via video, it's important to check in periodically with your doctor.

4. Get vaccinated. Vaccinations aren't only for kids; they're a proven means of boosting your immune system to protect against certain viruses and other infectious agents. Although COVID-19 has taken center stage recently, don't forget about traditional threats, such as the flu. Getting your annual flu shot is essential this year. Adults should also make certain that they are up to date on their tetanus shot, which should be given every 10 years, and consider getting the newer shingles vaccine, called Shingrix, which is recommended to everyone over age 50. It's designed to prevent the virus that causes chickenpox (which remains in the body even after the infection has cleared) from reactivating and causing the painful shingles rash and other symptoms.

5. Be skeptical. A host of products on the market claim to protect you from germs — "self-cleaning" surfaces, ultraviolet (UV) lights, and even substances you're supposed to ingest, says Starnbach. Many of these items have some scientific basis, but it's often a big leap from that basic science to the final product, he says. For example, one type of "self-cleaning" surface claims to use crystals to kill germs.

ROTARY INFORMATION

6 ways to take action during Vocational Service Month

Vocational Service calls on us to empower others by using our unique skills and expertise to address community needs and help others acquire or refine skills and advance their professional opportunities. By bringing together people from diverse professions and backgrounds, Rotary recognizes the importance of all skills and occupations. A vibrant Rotary club reflects the businesses, organizations and professions in its community, embracing diversity in experiences and perspectives. Your professional life and vocational service go hand in hand. Rotarians have a dual responsibility: represent their occupations within their club and exemplify the ideals of Rotary in their places of work. January is Rotary's Vocational Service Month, a great time to start leveraging vocational service! How can you take action?

Join a Rotarian Action Group and support service projects around the world. These autonomous groups consist of Rotarians, family members, and Rotary program participants and alumni with expertise in a particular field. Members advise and collaborate with clubs and districts on service projects. If your expertise fits one of the current 25 Action Groups, contact the groups' leaders to get involved.

Join or form a Rotary Fellowship related to your vocation. Rotary Fellowships are international groups of Rotarians, family members, and program participants and alumni who share a vocational or recreational interest. There are many vocationally-oriented fellowships such as: Authors and Writers, Editors and Publishers, Health Professionals, Lawyers, Photographers, Police and Law Enforcement.

Volunteer on a service project and use your vocational skills to serve others. Think about the underlying skills that make you successful in your profession: maybe you have training in some branch of science or medicine, are handy with tools or machinery, know how to start a business, have expertise managing finances, or can influence others through public speaking or writing. Use your unique set of talents to make a difference in your community.

Share your expertise through your district resource network. If you have technical expertise in one of Rotary's six areas of focus, or with project planning and implementation, community assessment, measurement and evaluation, or other important aspects of large scale projects, let your district international service chair know. Lend your skills to local clubs and help develop more impactful projects.

Participate in a vocationally-oriented Rotary Friendship Exchange. Work with your district Rotary Friendship Exchange chair to organize an international, reciprocal exchange between two districts interested in exploring a professional field in a new cultural context. Involve young professionals, and organize activities allowing exchange participants to experience cultural immersion while exploring their field in a new environment.

Join TRF's Cadre of Technical Advisors The Rotary Foundation Cadre of Technical Advisors is a group of volunteer Rotarians who provide technical expertise and advice to Rotarians planning and carrying out Rotary grant projects around the world. Cadre members review, monitor, and evaluate projects and ensure grant funds are being used properly. Apply online to be considered for the Cadre.
