We give thanks for the work of the many in literacy and development.
We pray for those who facilitate and all who learn, especially those who face deprivation.
Grant that your word may open doors in many hearts where there is understanding of your love.
We give thanks that, through literacy and development, opportunities are opened up for women, men and their families, people are empowered and given dignity in their daily lives.
Give us the strength to continue your good deeds and be a great part of this endeavor.
Let the children learn and be pillars of future generations to come.
AMEN!

Some phrases a traveler should never use

Smarter Travel @ Yahoo.com.ph

To fend off foot-in-mouth syndrome while on the road, banish the following phrases from your lexicon

Do You Speak English?

There are basic foreign-language expressions that every international traveller should learn before crossing borders, and this is one of them. Even if you're light-years away from fluency, a rudimentary grasp of simple phrases in the regional tongue—like "please," "hello," "thank you," "no thank you," and "where is the bathroom?"—will work wonders. Add to this list "Do you speak English?" to be stated in the applicable language. It's a show of respect.

Do You Have Change for a $20?

This phrase shouldn't be spoken to your bellman, tour guide, airport-shuttle driver, hotel housekeeper, or any other serviceperson not stationed behind a cash register. Travel and tipping go together, thus, road warriors should make a point of obtaining small bills in the local currency at the beginning of every trip. Don't put your service person in the position of awkwardly fumbling through his or her wallet in order to receive due recompense.

Can You Help Me? I'm Lost, and I'm Staying at [Name of Hotel].

Have you seen the movie Taken? It's about a girl who gets kidnapped in Paris after human traffickers have found out where she is staying. Yes, it's Hollywood. But, to some degree, art imitates life. Many criminals target unsuspecting travelers—especially in popular tourist destinations—and it's not a smart idea to tell a stranger that you're from out of town or to publicize where you're bunking down for the night. You might not get sold into sex slavery, but you could get robbed, especially if your hotel lacks top-notch security.

Geez. It's Not Like I Have A Bomb.

Airport security can often seem like a joke—especially when young children get pat-downs or Transportation Security Administration (TSA) agents steal from passengers. But that doesn't mean you should play the part of the comedian when going through the metal detector. Travellers have been arrested for making jokes about terrorism in the airport. According to the TSA, "Belligerence, inappropriate jokes, and threats are not tolerated. Jokes and/or comments about threats to passengers or the aircraft will be taken seriously and can result in criminal or civil penalties for the passenger." Be on the safe side and save the jokes for after you've left the airport.

The yearly District Mangrove Planting & Coastal Clean-up at the Aboitiz Cleanergy Park in Punta Dumalag, Matina Aplaya last September 14 was participated in by Rotarians and Rotaractors from Area 2A,2B and 2C. It was both educational and fun

Before the actual mangrove planting activity, there was a lecture on proper garbage disposal to prevent garbage scattering in the shorelines and eventually ending up in the sea thereby destroying the marine ecosystem.

The lecture also touched on turtles and their habitat. It is a known fact that turtles return to the very same place where they were hatched, to lay their eggs when they reach reproductive maturity of 20 to 50 years. These marine reptiles are highly migratory but are capable of remembering and returning to the place where they were hatched despite the great distance they have to travel.

The marine turtle sanctuary covering a 2 kilometre stretch of white sand peninsula of Punta Dumalag in Matina Aplaya is part of the 37 hectare marine protected area that was established through the Council Resolution No. 02504-03 declaring the area as a nesting ground for hawksbill turtles.

At present, one can find three endangered Hawksbill turtles being taken cared of before they are finally released to the open sea.

Punta Dumalag Peninsula while primarily a marine turtle sanctuary is also declared a protected area for mangroves which grow abundantly in the vicinity.

Mangroves are vitally important to the environment because they protect shorelines from damaging storm and hurricane winds, waves and floods. They also help prevent soil erosion by stabilizing the sediments with their tangled root system as well as maintaining water purity and clarity.

They also filter water pollutants and trap sediments originating from land.

DG Philip Tan who actively participated in the said event, talked about the importance of caring for our environment and suggested the inclusion of environmental care and protection as Rotary's 7th Area of Focus during the term of DGE Riezl Reyes.

Our club was given 20 mangrove seedlings to plant and it took the five of us (PP Marivic, PP/Sec Baby, Dir Ces, Rtn Myriam and me) no more than 20 mins. to do the planting since holes were already prepared beforehand in the designated areas,

When we finished, we utilize the best of our remaining time to enjoy nature and the beautiful scenery and enjoyed each other's company.

Thank you ladies for sharing your time to make a difference to our environment.

What is Rotary Literacy Month?

Rotary Literacy Month highlights literacy and education issues around the world.

Rotary Literacy Month is an excellent opportunity for Rotary clubs and districts to raise awareness about literacy, launch new literacy initiatives and projects, and recognize literacy accomplishments from the past year.

Rotarians everywhere are encouraged to participate in Rotary Literacy Month by engaging in service or activities that specifically address literacy and education issues either in their communities or abroad.

Some ideas for Rotary Literacy Month activities include:

Raising awareness about literacy and education

- ♥ Invite local literacy or education experts like teachers, school administrators, government education officers, and university professors, to speak at your club’s meeting about local, regional, or international literacy and education issues.
- ♥ Arrange for club members to visit local schools, universities, libraries, and tutoring centers to learn about your community’s literacy and education resources.
- ♥ Facilitate a discussion session at your club’s meeting about literacy and education in your community.

Take action for literacy

- ♥ Launch a new literacy project during Rotary Literacy Month
- ♥ Work with existing literacy providers to plan a literacy project
- ♥ Arrange for club members to volunteer at a tutoring center
- ♥ Begin a student mentoring program
- ♥ Encourage local businesses to offer education opportunities for employees
- ♥ Start an adult education program at a local school or community center
- ♥ Conduct a teacher training event for your district
- ♥ Conduct a literacy awareness campaign in your community
- ♥ Donate books for a community library, school supplies for under privileged students, or teaching materials for underprivileged schools

Connecting with our environment

Help achieve universal education: take action during Rotary Literacy Month

Since the U.N. Millennium Development Goals were established in 2000, Rotary has played a role in global efforts to reduce extreme poverty and reach target goals.

While great progress has been made towards universal primary education, advancements towards this goal slowed significantly over the past eight years. About 58 million primary-school-age children are currently not enrolled in school while 781 million adults and 126 million youth worldwide lack basic literacy skills. Achieving universal primary education and gender equality in schools is critical to meeting other development goals. Greater levels of education help communities fight poverty, prevent disease, and access and sustain resources for longer, more prosperous lives.*

During Rotary Literacy Month, replicate successful Rotary projects to continue addressing literacy, education, and gender equality at school:

- ♥ The Rotary Club of Makati North, Philippines, works with their Rotary Community Corps to provide undernourished primary school pupils with nutritious meals. As a result, 100+ pupils experienced fewer medical issues and miss less school.
- ♥ With the help of partners and a Rotary Grant, the Rotary Club of Taipei Twins, Taiwan provided 2000 students' homes in Myanmar with solar power and LED lighting. A generator charging station and storage was installed at the local school. Reliable access to electricity has improved school attendance & helped students keep up with their studies.
- ♥ Rotary Clubs from Malaysia & India used a Rotary Grant to construct toilet blocks for girls at a public school in Chennai, India. Fewer girls missed school as a result of these new facilities

How else can we help?

Conduct assessments. Determine core literacy and education needs in a particular community.

- Involve the whole family. Organize family events to empower parents and caretakers to remain actively involved in their children's education or to seek educational opportunities for themselves.

CASE STUDY: OPERATION UPGRADE: SOUTH AFRICA

In the province of KwaZulu-Natal, adult illiteracy is high and HIV/AIDS is prevalent.

Operation Upgrade, a nongovernmental organization in South Africa, runs an adult literacy program that prepares learners for practical life skills such as opening a bank account, writing and posting a letter, managing finances, and developing a small business.

The curriculum also includes information and supplemental projects related to HIV/AIDS and other health issues, nutrition, food security, and other community development concerns.

The adult learners cover all these topics through lessons in Zulu literacy, English literacy, and numeracy.

Several Rotary clubs have partnered with Operation Upgrade to teach adult learners literacy, numeracy, and related practical skills.

The curriculum includes a Zulu literacy component in which students are taught how to break sentences into words, words into phrases and then into phonetic syllables, enabling them to build new words based on what they learned.

Good Practice: South Africa

Operation Upgrade - This research-based project uses adult literacy and adult basic education to promote social change and development in Kwanbela, a remote and isolated rural community with a high literacy rate and prevalence of HIV and AIDS. The Kwanbela Project's goals of improving the literacy of rural women who head households and improving access to health facilities and sanitation constitute a holistic vision which strongly illustrates the important connection between literacy and health.

(Winner of the Conducted Prize for Literacy 2009)

Literacy is the foundation for virtually all forms of education and a crucial component of effective social and economic participation, human development, and poverty reduction. According to the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) nearly 800 million people over the age of 15 lack even basic reading and writing skills worldwide.

Literacy empowers people. It is the foundation for virtually all forms of education and an essential component of poverty reduction, social inclusion, and economic development. Despite the importance of literacy, there are over 800 million people unable to read or write in the world today, and 64 percent of these people are women and girls.

STRATEGY: FOCUS ON GETTING GIRLS INTO SCHOOL

While the gender gap in school enrollment is narrowing globally, major disparities remain in regions such as the Middle East, South and West Asia, and sub-Saharan Africa. The causes preventing girls in these regions from attending school include:

- Cultural attitudes toward girls’ and women’s place in society
- Economic barriers, including the cost of transportation, school fees, and the missed “opportunity cost” of income-generating activities that girls undertake when not in school
- Predominance of male teachers who lack gender-sensitivity training
- Long distances between home and school, which pose security concerns (especially the threat of sexual violence)
- Lack of sanitation facilities (especially separate latrines) at schools

Working to remove these barriers to girls’ education can pay huge dividends in the overall development of a community. More educated women tend to be healthier, work and earn more income, have fewer children, and provide better health care and education to their children.

It is estimated that some countries lose more than $1 billion per year in missed economic production by failing to educate girls to the same standard as boys.

WASH (Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene) interventions in schools have been an effective way to improve school attendance, as well as children’s health and school performance.

Providing clean drinking water, hygiene education (e.g., handwashing), and safe sanitation facilities creates a virtuous cycle in which children become less susceptible to waterborne illness and therefore miss school less frequently, attend school in a healthier state, and consequently perform better in school.

Through a global grant, Rotary clubs supported nine public elementary schools outside Guatemala City by laying new pipes for fresh water, improving quality of drinking water, and installing flush toilets and hand washing stations for improved sanitation.

A teacher dispenses soap to students during a lunch break at Rancho Alegre School in Guatemala. Washing hands with soap and water can do more to prevent diarrhea, death by malnutrition, and dehydration than any single vaccine or medical intervention, according to scientific studies

(FYI. MG No. 74750 RCWWD (RY 2011-12)

Rainwater Harvesting Project which aimed to promote sanitation, provided water tanks & built toilets to 3 public elementary schools in Davao City .

Soon thereafter RCWWD has been advocating Water Sanitation & Hygiene in various public elementary schools in the city)

This&That

AND SO BE IT !!

When God created the donkey, He spoke to him: You are a donkey, you will work non-stop from morning till evening. You will carry heavy burdens on your back. You will eat only grass and you will have little intelligence.

You will live for 50 years.

The donkey answered – to live 50 years is much to much with the kind of life I will have.

Please give me only 30 years.

..... and so be it

And then God created the dog and spoke to it ...You are a dog.

You will watch over the humans and their properties, you will be man's best friend.. you will eat what the humans will give you to eat, most of which are their leftovers.

You will live for 25 years.

The dog replied – to live for 25 years is too much for me, please give me only ten years.

..... and so be it.

Next, God created the monkey and told him ... you are a monkey. You will swing from tree to tree, and act like an idiot.

You will be like a clown and will live for 20 years. The monkey said – Dear God, to live like a world's clown for 20 years is too much.

Just give me ten years. ... and so be it.

Finally, God created the male and spoke to him you are the male, the most intelligent of all creatures of this earth. You will use your intelligence to make other creatures be beholden to you. You will rule the earth and will live for 20 years.

Dissatisfied, the male replied... My God, to be a male and just live for 20 years is too short a life for me. Please give me the 20 years the donkey gave back to You, the 15 years the dog did not accept and the ten years that the monkey declined.

And so God took care that the male lives as a man for 20 years, got married & worked for 20 years like a donkey from morning till evening, carrying on the burdens of having a family.

Like a dog, he watches over his house and his children and eats whatever his family left for him.

In his ripe old age, like a monkey, acts like an idiot and is a clown to his grandchildren for 10 years. and so be it.

A mother enters her daughter's bedroom and sees a letter over the bed. With the worst premonition, she reads it with trembling hands:

Dear Mom.

It is with great regret and sorrow that I'm telling you that I eloped with my new boyfriend.

I found real passion and he is nice, with all his piercing and tattoos and his big motorcycle.

But it is not only that mom, I'm pregnant and he said that we will be very happy in his trailer in the woods. He wants to have more children with me and that's one of my dreams.

I've learned that marijuana doesn't hurt anyone and we'll be growing it for us and his friends, who are providing us with all the cocaine and ecstasies we may want.

In the meantime, we'll pray for science to find the AIDS cure, for him to get better. He deserves it.

Don't worry mom. I'm 15 years old now and I know how to take care of myself.

Someday I'll visit for you to know your grandchildren.

Your daughter,

Judith

PS: Mom, it's not true. I'm at the neighbor's house. I just wanted to show you that there are worse things in life than the report card that's in my desk drawer....

I love you!

ROTARIAN CODE OF CONDUCT

As a Rotarian, I will:

1. Act with integrity and high ethical standards in my personal and professional life
2. Deal fairly with others and treat them and their occupations with respect
3. Use my professional skills through Rotary to mentor young people, help those with special needs, and improve people's quality of life in my community and in the world
4. Avoid behavior that reflect adversely on Rotary or other Rotarians.

THE FOUR-WAY TEST

of the things we think, say or do

- Is it the TRUTH?
- Is it FAIR to all concerned?
- Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
- Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned

THE OBJECT OF ROTARY

The Object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

FIRST. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

SECOND. High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

THIRD. The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, and community life;

FOURTH. The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

ROTARY'S SIX AREAS OF FOCUS

For more than 100 years, Rotarians have joined together from all continents, cultures and industries to take action in our communities and around the world. With a commitment to achieving lasting change, we work together to empower youth, enhance health, promote peace, and most important, advance the community.

While Rotarians can serve in countless ways, Rotary has focused its efforts in six areas, which reflect some of the most critical and widespread humanitarian needs:

- Peace and conflict prevention/resolution
- Disease prevention and treatment
- Water and sanitation
- Maternal and child health
- Basic education and literacy
- Economic and community development
