Vocational Service

Vocational Service is one of Rotary's Avenues of Service. Vocational Service calls every Rotarian to:

- aspire to high ethical standards in their occupation;
- recognize the worthiness of all useful occupations, and;
- contribute their vocational talents to the problems and needs of society.

January

Editor's Note

It's a brand new year ahead of us and let us think of good things to come.

We are halfway through this Rotary Year and for our club a grand celebration is about to happen — our 28th Charter Anniversary.

Two more years and RCWWD will be 30 years old. How time flies when you are having fun.

January is celebrated as Rotary Vocational Month. This is more than just a theme for the month, and we Rotarians are encouraged to make a commitment to offer vocational opportunities and enriched the lives of others.

I'm sure you have a story to tell about your experiences in your vocation as a Rotarian.

Perhaps an experience that made an impact you can never forget, an unpleasant experience as a new member never quite knowing the relevance of your classification to Rotary service ... , a community project involvement that softened or softens your heart.

Whatever it is, this chapter of your life as a Rotarian is something you can proudly tell people because you know you are doing something good.

The last film I watched before 2019 ended was STARWARS... The Rise of Skywalker.

The film's protagonist is Rey a reluctant Jedi to be who is in denial of her abilities to fight evil and do good in the world.

The film reminds me of some members of RCWWD who are reluctant to lead the club in the future even if they have the capability to do so.

DENIAL ... ladies, do not deny yourselves, the club and our community of your ability to lead the club to do good in a small way but with a big impact.

Opportunity only knocks once, and you might live to regret it.

Happy New Year and may the FORCE BE WITH US !!!

Greetings !

The Rotary Club of Waling-Waling Davao's Christmas Party was a blast.

For the first time in years, it was the most well-attended affair not only by the members themselves but also by the spouses, children and grandchildren as well.

Thanks to the host group Radiant in gold headed by PP Marivic no less and the mother and daughter tandem of PP Lorna and Rtn Cessca for a wonderful evening of good food, overflowing drinks and fun-filled games and dance contests.

Congratulations to the Marquesas in their lovely green costume who, despite the absence of their team leader Dir Luna, still showed dominance in the dance presentation with PP Baby exhibiting her superb dancing prowess on the floor.

With PP Cheryl at the helm of the hot flushing red Victorian group, the ladies in red were not to be outdone manifesting their brilliance at least in the Christmas juggle game contest.

But the biggest winners of all were the Rotary spouses and kids who enjoyed the night actively participating in the parlor games.

Christmas is indeed the season of sharing.

Thanks to the officers and members of the Mindanao Garden Club, Inc. (MGCI) headed by President Vivencio and Vice-President Marivic Jimenez for donating Twelve Thousand Pesos (P12,000. -) intended for the relief operation to the affected and displaced families caused by the December 15 earthquake that hit Davao del Sur.

Family is forever and this is specially evident in the Filipino tradition of homecoming during Christmastime.

Filipinos value family and wherever they are in the world, they always find time to come home to be able to celebrate Christmas together with families and loved ones.

As we welcome the New Year, let us continue to have the courage, hope and faith to overcome all of the hurdles that life may bring.

Here's to a great 2020 and a wonderful time ahead !

T. Yñiguez

Message

January 2020

People from all over the world have multiple reasons for joining Rotary. Many new Rotarians each year join for the same reason I did — because Rotary is a great way to benefit your career. When I was a new attorney starting out in Alabama, Gay and I became partners in her father's firm. He instilled in us the value of joining Rotary as a way to build relationships and demonstrate to potential clients that we were serious professionals who held firm to values even more robust than what our profession required.

Rotary's commitment to vocational service is built on the highest ethical standards in business and professions, the recognition of the worthiness of all useful work, and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society.

That last point is so important.

No matter our profession, we all contribute mightily to the world when we conduct our work with integrity and always adhere to The Four-Way Test.

I have made balancing the demands of Rotary with professional and family commitments one of my priorities as president. No Rotarian should feel pressured to put in more time than a volunteer position should ever demand. This is true for several reasons, one of them being that the work we do in our day jobs is just as important to Rotary as the work we do in the organization.

We carry our Rotary values everywhere, and our professional success helps build a case for Rotary every day we go into the office.

This is particularly important in our efforts to reach younger new members.

We want to see a Rotary where no one is ever asked to choose between being a good Rotarian and being a good parent, business owner, manager, or employee.

When we ask busy young people to join us, we should not be asking them to give up their time and freedom. We should be rewarding them with an experience that makes everything they already do even more inspiring.

Providing greater balance within Rotary will have another benefit as well:

It will create opportunities for other Rotarians, including Rotaractors, to step up and take a leadership role on projects and committees.

This will ensure that they remain engaged in our clubs and inspired to be Rotarians for life.

Throughout the world, Rotary is admired for its vocational service and for the time-honored values we instill in all business relationships.

As we continue our work to grow Rotary, let us remember that vocational service remains a crucial selling point to potential members.

Rotary Connects the World, and by making Rotary's vocational service work known to people in more professions and at different stages of their careers, we will help grow our organization and make it stronger and more diverse

The concept of vocational service

The Object of Rotary is a philosophical statement of Rotary's purpose and the responsibilities of Rotarians. The concept of vocational service is rooted in the Second Object, which calls on Rotarians to encourage and foster":

High ethical standards in business and professions

The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations

The dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society

As a Rotarian, how can you put these ideals into action? Consider these suggestions:

- ♥ Use your professional skills to serve a community.
- ♥ Practice your profession with integrity, and inspire others to behave ethically through your own words and actions.
- ♥ Help a young person achieve his or her career aspirations.
- ♥ Guide and encourage others in their professional development.

If you do any of these things, you are performing vocational service. And if vocational service motivates and energizes you, then you're in the right place, because vocational service is the very essence of Rotary.

It is what sets Rotary apart from other service organizations.

Classification

January Vocational Service Month

What first brought you to Rotary?

In all likelihood, someone identified you as a prospective Rotarian because you are a respected member of your business or professional field — in Rotary parlance, your "classification."

Each Rotary club's membership represents a cross-section of its community's business and professional population, which ensures diversity in experiences and perspectives.

Classification and vocational service go hand in hand. Just as Rotarians represent their vocations in Rotary, so do they represent Rotary in their vocations.

Integrity and ethics

Promoting integrity through ethical behavior is an essential part of what it means to be a Rotarian.

Two standards developed by Rotarians —

The Four-Way Test and the Rotary Code of Conduct provide a road map for ethical behavior in the workplace and other areas of life.

The Four-Way Test

The Four-Way Test was conceived in 1932 by businessman Herbert J. Taylor, a member of the Rotary Club of Chicago who served as Rotary International president in 1954-55.

Having taken on the task of saving a company from bankruptcy, Taylor developed the test as an ethical guide to follow in all business matters.

The company's survival was credited to this simple philosophy.

Adopted by Rotary International in 1934, The Four-Way Test remains an essential standard against which Rotarians measure ethical behavior.

It has been translated into dozens of languages and promoted by Rotarians worldwide

Rotary Code of Conduct

The Rotary Code of Conduct (formerly known as the Declaration of Rotarians in Businesses and Professions) provides a framework for ethical behavior that all Rotarians can use, together with The Four-Way Test, in their business and professional activities.

Advancing high ethical standards in the workplace

As leaders in their businesses and professions, Rotarians can advance high ethical standards by setting a positive example among employees, associates, and the community in general.

All types of work-related interaction offer an opportunity to encourage ethical behavior.

Here are a few specific ways that Rotarians can integrate ethics into their daily work life:

- Discuss and emphasize honesty, accountability, fairness, integrity, and respect when hiring and training employees.
- Praise and encourage the exemplary behavior of your colleagues.
- Demonstrate your personal commitment to high ethical standards in relations with customers, vendors, and business associates, treating each business interaction with care and consideration.

Vocational Service focuses on:

- Adherence to and promotion of the highest ethical standards in all occupations, including fair treatment of employers, employees, associates, competitors, and the public.
- The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations, not just those that are pursued by Rotarians.
- The contribution of your vocational talents to solving the problems of society and meeting the needs of the community.

During January, Rotarians are encouraged to focus on this important avenue of Rotary service. Discussions on vocational service can lead to projects that not only develop the ethical consciousness and vocational skills of Rotarians but also the talents within their communities.

Vocational Service Month is an opportunity to begin year-long vocational service activities, ranging from Rotary discussions to awards to community projects.

Take Action

- Host a classification talk at your next club meeting. These presentations give members the chance to learn the inner workings of jobs other than their own and can plant the seeds for professional networking opportunities. The talks also are useful for introducing guests and prospective members to your club.
- Organize tours of members' workplaces. Members who find public speaking difficult might prefer to conduct a workplace tour rather than give a classification talk. If logistics can be worked out, schedule an occasional meeting in a member's place of employment.
- Join or form a Rotary Fellowship related to your vocation. Rotary Fellowships are international associations of Rotarians, Rotarians' spouses, and Rotaractors who share a recreational or vocational interest. There are vocational fellowships for doctors, law enforcement officers, editors, and members of other professions.
- Volunteer for a service project that uses your vocational skills. Think about the skills that make you successful in your profession: Maybe you are trained in some branch of science or medicine, are handy with tools or mechanical things, know how to start a business, have expertise managing finances, or can influence others through public speaking or writing. Use your unique set of talents to make a difference in your community.
- Have your club dedicate time to discuss the importance of The Four-Way Test and the Rotary Code of Conduct. In particular, be sure to educate new members and prospective members on the importance of these documents as guiding principles for Rotary's commitment to integrity.
- Organize a workshop on ethics in the workplace and invite local non-Rotarian business leaders to attend. To help participants build practical problem-solving skills, consider including an open discussion exploring how to deal with examples of ethical dilemmas.
- Give ethics awards to businesses or professionals who demonstrate high ethical standards in their treatment of employees, customers, and the communities in which they work.
- Sponsor an essay or speech contest for young people. Many clubs hold local or regional competitions for junior or senior high school students to address the theme "What The Four-Way Test means to me." These contests are an effective way to get young people engaged with the concepts of ethics and integrity.

THE OBJECT OF ROTARY

The Object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

FIRST. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

SECOND. High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

THIRD. The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, and community life;

FOURTH. The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

ROTARY'S SIX AREAS OF FOCUS

For more than 100 years, Rotarians have joined together from all continents, cultures and industries to take action in our communities and around the world. With a commitment to achieving lasting change, we work together to empower youth, enhance health, promote peace, and most important, advance the community.

While Rotarians can serve in countless ways, Rotary has focused its efforts in six areas, which reflect some of the most critical and widespread humanitarian needs:

- Peace and conflict prevention/resolution
- Disease prevention and treatment
- Water and sanitation
- Maternal and child health
- Basic education and literacy
- Economic and community development
