Thursday Thoughts

Meetings after the DISTAS are the times for us to look back and enjoy the fruits of our labor.

Am sure Pres Gigi will always be grateful and appreciative of your invaluable services in rendering your free time, resources and energy to our club projects and activities.

Despite some setbacks, (COVID 19) personal agenda and other individual priorities, taken as a whole and working complimentary as a team, I hope our combined efforts contributed immeasurably to the enormous success this Rotary Year.

Dear members, do not be clouded with the thoughts that we have to do things for the sake of being recognized, leading us to compare other clubs' accomplishments with ours.

Recognition is good for motivation, but then again if that will be our only motive to help others, then we have failed our beneficiaries.

As God is our witness, our ways of accomplishing things are guided by His principles.

We are the best because we do things sincerely with love and commitment.

That is who we are, and nobody can take that away from us.

Wishing you an 'always' kind of love!*

Happy Anniversary!

Pres Impression

Good afternoon Ladies in Red, this month Rotary is celebrating the youth. Rotary has a long history of working with the youth, from encouraging youth leadership and student programs to sponsoring youth based service clubs.

Last month we had the RYLA (Rotary Youth Leadership Training) which was attended by our Rotaractors and our youngest member Rotarian Alex Konst, who will be our speaker this afternoon.

Our Club is very much privilege to have 2 very active ROTARACT Clubs.

Youth is such a wonderful thing. It comes but once in a lifetime.

As what Franklin Roosevelt said “ We cannot always build the future for our youth, but we can build our youth for the future”.

We have a lot of good news received this week.

Our candidate for the Rotary Global Scholarship, Atty Jennife Dumalag – Borong of DCWD was chosen among 45 applicants for the Rotary IHE Delft Global Grant Scholarship in Netherlands.

Our District Grant Application was approved too by the DRFC for RY 2020-2021.

The approved amount is 4000 dollars. This would be a great help for the renovation of RCWWD Matina Pangi livelihood center.

I am so grateful to the Past Presidents, members and officers of the club who had given their full support and to their dedication to the club .

I have great respect to you all.

Thank you very much!

Pres Gigi

Going upstream to reverse the effects of river pollution

By Joe Otin, past district governor of Rotary District 9212
(Eritrea, Ethiopia, Kenya, South Sudan) posted 22 April 2021

It's no wonder that rivers have a special place in art, music, and legend. The founders of mighty cities secured foundations mostly where the life blood of mother nature offered a continuous supply of refreshment. Primitive societies worshiped rivers for the same reason – they brought a pure supply of the mountain's offering and booked unwanted waste on a free ride out of town.

Civilization however comes with unavoidable side effects including the incredible burden society places on the very environment that it relies on for survival. With population increase comes thriving agriculture and expansive industry, all of which have traditionally found in rivers an outlet for their waste.

There is a new set of ideas intended to reverse the negative effects of river pollution in the Horn of Africa dubbed Adopt A River Initiative for Sustainable Development.

They have been developed by a vibrant network of Rotary clubs in collaboration with the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP), a worldwide authority on nature. The dynamic duo is keenly aware that previous attempts to restore fresh water sources in this part of the continent have failed miserably.

Problems downstream

The stories are on resident's lips; those who, at some point, cleared plastic waste at the river cleanup, dug deep into their pockets at the national fundraiser, bought the T-shirt and even watched the movie. They did what they were told would save the rivers. But still the stench concentrated over time and the water turned black and opaque from poisonous levels of nitrogen compounds and fecal matter. What they did down stream, where the pollution was evident, would never really have an impact on the unacceptable dumping occurring upstream.

The second generation farmer aiming to drive up their yield pumps the ground with fertilizers that end up seeping into the river. The property developer seeking to provide housing for workers, builds low cost boarding in an area with inexistent sewage infrastructure; and the effluence from the estate finds its way into the creek. Illegal dumping sites are created by informal businesses and kept out of site in the river valley where the solid waste is carried away during the rainy season.

Adopt A River's grand plan incorporates Rotary's ability to mobilize communities and their undeniable experience in joining forces with the corporate world to tackle diverse issues facing society.

It also encompasses the incredible knowledge base of the international environmental agency UNEP and its network of development and governmental bodies working together to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals.

Mobilizing communities

The initiative intends to elevate science because tangible improvements require more than rudimentary measures. This includes empowering residents with practical citizen science and encouraging them to conduct community research to shed light on all options that have impact. It is also clear that solving the pollution problem requires a broad base of stakeholders and it is necessary to combine the efforts of many players over an extended duration of time to bring real change.

Within the name of the initiative the word adopt is very deliberate. It signifies an unyielding commitment and parent-like protection of a river that might be abandoned and decrepit. The Rotary clubs that are dotted around the region are selecting portions of the rivers and making these long-term commitments. They have pledged to work diligently with the local communities, private companies and donors to restore the health of their river.

From Adopt a River projects in the Horn of Africa to restoring mangroves in East Nassau (pictured), Rotary is committed to protecting the environment.

ROTARIAN CODE OF CONDUCT

As a Rotarian, I will:

1. Act with integrity and high ethical standards in my personal and professional life
2. Deal fairly with others and treat them and their occupations with respect
3. Use my professional skills through Rotary to mentor young people, help those with special needs, and improve people's quality of life in my community and in the world
4. Avoid behavior that reflect adversely on Rotary or other Rotarians.

THE FOUR-WAY TEST

of the things we think, say or do

- Is it the TRUTH?
- Is it FAIR to all concerned?
- Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
- Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned

THE OBJECT OF ROTARY

The Object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

FIRST. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

SECOND. High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

THIRD. The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, and community life;

FOURTH. The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

ROTARY'S SIX AREAS OF FOCUS

For more than 100 years, Rotarians have joined together from all continents, cultures and industries to take action in our communities and around the world. With a commitment to achieving lasting change, we work together to empower youth, enhance health, promote peace, and most important, advance the community.

While Rotarians can serve in countless ways, Rotary has focused its efforts in six areas, which reflect some of the most critical and widespread humanitarian needs:

- Peace and conflict prevention/resolution
- Disease prevention and treatment
- Water and sanitation
- Maternal and child health
- Basic education and literacy
- Economic and community development
