EDITOR'S NOTE

Following the adrenaline rush from our 33rd Installation of Officers and Board of Directors & Handover Ceremonies, it's time to officially kickstart our Rotary Year into motion. I hope everyone had a blast at our Rotary event! Pictures are courtesy of Erikka J Photography.

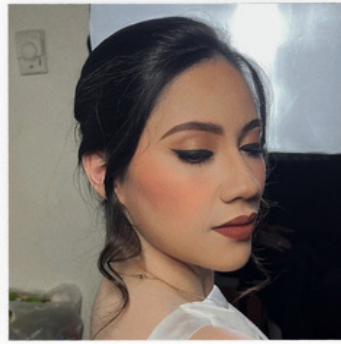

This Bloomscoop issue is jam-packed with all things membership. Our new members, also known as I-Hope, have articles on who they are and why they joined Rotary. We also have PP Evangeline Schwendener sharing with us the Membership Minute.

Let's also welcome PE Vida Könst and Rtn. Leamie Retales to our Editorial Board! I'm sure with these two, the Bloomscoop will be better than ever.

Cheers!

President's Perspective

PRES. EMMANOUELLE ZHANG

Dearest Members of the Rotary Club of Waling-Waling Davao,

As we step into the month of August, let us begin with excitement and opportunity, for August is celebrated as Membership Month in the Rotary calendar. This is a time for us to come together, reflect on our accomplishments, and extend a warm invitation to our new members and reignite the cause of current members who share our passion for service and community development.

Our Club has always thrived on the collective energy and dedication of its members, and I am filled with anticipation as I think about the incredible projects and initiatives that lie ahead of us. The Rotary Club of Waling-Waling Davao has a rich history of making a positive impact, and I have no doubt that the coming months will be no different.

I encourage each and every one of you to spread the word about the Rotary spirit, inviting friends, colleagues, and acquaintances to join us in our noble endeavors.

Let us embrace this Membership Month with enthusiasm, reinforcing our bonds of friendship and camaraderie. Together, we can achieve remarkable feats and continue to be a beacon of hope for our community.

Membership Makeover: Invigorate Your Club

Create the club you crave.

*Rotary Club of Harrisonburg-Rocktown,

... In retrospect, the solution was obvious: Can't find a Rotary club that works for you? Create one that does. Joined by two other women from the community, [Meghan] Schenker-Fulcher pooled their brainpower, as she puts it, "to create what we thought would be an ideal Rotary experience for both ourselves and other women in our community."

The three spent several months thinking through the kind of club they wanted. "We spent the summer of 2019 holding informational sessions, which allowed people to hear our story, understand the why, and get inspired to join," Schenker-Fulcher explains...

Plan projects that pack a punch

Rotary Club of Singapore

Members of the Rotary Club of Singapore attach a lot of importance to projects, says James Lee, immediate past president. "They want to see the impact of their contributions and efforts on the people and communities they serve," he says. "We keep them updated about the progress and challenges of our local and overseas projects, and we invite them to sign up and contribute to the ones they are interested in. This gives them a sense of involvement and belonging."

The signature project of the club, which has sponsored 28 global grants since 2013, is Help the Children, serving communities in the East Java province of Indonesia. "What started as a small ad-hoc project supporting 20 under-privileged school children morphed into multipronged, multicycle global grant projects spanning the last 15 years," Lee says. "It's helping communities and up to 60 schools to uplift basic literacy and basic education among students and teachers..."

Connect to amplify impact

Rotary Club of Roswell After Hours, Georgia

...“Our founding members are a group of 20-somethings who were craving in-person camaraderie when the world was opening up again after the pandemic,” she says. “We target people who want to do good for the community while making connections and building relationships. We get to be a group of young people with a love and heart for service. That’s what Rotary was built on.”

Because most club members are young professionals, their work schedules made it difficult to attend the Roswell club’s weekly lunch meetings.

To accommodate members’ schedules, meetings are held after regular work hours — hence the club’s name — at a local brewery...

Don't forget to have fun

Rotary Club of Halifax Harbour, Nova Scotia

... A past district governor and a member of what [Louisa Horne] describes as the “irresistible” Rotary Club of Halifax Harbour, Horne acknowledges that her club organizes social activities for members. But fun? “Fun is a byproduct of being engaged in things you’re passionate about,” she says.

... Halifax Harbour is organized into three teams.

The We Connect People team focuses on member engagement, including fun activities that members can pursue together (think ghost tours, ax throwing, and seasonal celebrations). The We Transform Communities team plans and organizes local and international service projects, and the We Fund Sustainable Projects team does exactly what you would expect: coordinates fundraisers, such as an annual rib festival that’s raised more than $500,000 since 2015...

THE MEMBERSHIP MINUTE

SHARING THE GIFT OF ROTARY

August is Membership and Extension Month.

Now is the time to challenge your club members to invite someone into Rotary. After all, the fact that membership in Rotary is by invitation only means that the survival of your club depends on members sharing Rotary with others.

Take a moment and think about how you were introduced to Rotary. Who invited you to your first Rotary meeting? Who invited you to join your club?

Now think about all of the great people you've met, important projects you've contributed to, interesting places you've been, and the people you've helped throughout your time in Rotary.

It's probably fair to say that, considering all you've gained through your membership in Rotary, you appreciate the person who first invited you to your club. If it hadn't been for that person's kind invitation, you might not have had the same opportunities for fellowship, service, and international exposure.

For many people, joining Rotary is a life-changing event. So why do so many Rotarians find it difficult to ask others to join?

Perhaps members are uncomfortable approaching other people and "selling" Rotary to them.

Maybe they don't know how to explain Rotary to others in a concise and appealing way.

Regardless of the reason for their hesitation, a change in perspective may motivate more Rotarians to invite others to come to a Rotary event with them.

Shared by
PP Evangeline Schwendener
Past President • Bloomscoop Adviser

Perhaps if members focus on all of the benefits of Rotary and think of Rotary membership as a gift to be shared instead of product to be sold, they will be more inspired to invite others to join Rotary.

The following outline is a sample of how you can approach the topic of recruitment in an upcoming club meeting. Following these steps can help members view recruitment as sharing Rotary instead of selling Rotary and equip them with tools to address their recruitment apprehensions.

First, spend a few minutes facilitating a discussion among club members in which they reflect on the person who proposed each of them for membership. Ask them to consider how much their time in Rotary has meant to them and how much they have gained from Rotary. Suggest that Rotary membership is a gift, and emphasize how important it is to share this gift with others. You may want to point out that someone was once nice enough to share Rotary with each one of them, and so they should all extend the courtesy and share Rotary with others.

Once members are focused on how much they have enjoyed and gained from their time in Rotary and how appreciative they are of the person who proposed them, they may be more open to the idea of sharing the gift of Rotary with others in their lives.

RCWWD Ladies with DGE Caroline "Cay-Cay" Andrade

The next step is for each club member to come up with a list of qualified individuals who might make a good Rotarians: friends, family members, business associates, neighbors, and other acquaintances. Some members may say that they can't think of any good prospective members. It's important to discuss how club members should approach these potential Rotarians.

It can be intimidating for both the Rotarian and the prospective member if the Rotarian tries to "sell" Rotary and explain everything about its programs in the initial invitation. Therefore, it can be beneficial to keep the initial contact as simple as possible. Remind your members that the initial approach can be very effortless; in many cases, it's simply inviting someone to breakfast or lunch or saying something like, "I'm going to a meeting later this week with a program that I think you'd find interesting. Would you like...?"

Rtn. Lara De los Santos during their induction

Finally, spend a few minutes having your club members write down some of the reasons they're in Rotary. Encourage them to discuss these reasons with the next guest they bring to a club event. Sharing the gift of Rotary is more than just inviting someone to a meeting; it also includes sharing personal Rotary experiences with the people around you.

When prospective members hear about the great experiences that their hosts have had in Rotary, they can start to visualize the great experiences they might have in Rotary.

At the end of your program, remind club members that inviting someone to a Rotary event opens up a whole world of exciting new opportunities for that person. Encourage them to share the gift of Rotary with the people around them. Once club members think about recruitment as sharing a gift instead of making a sales call, you should see an increase in the number of prospective members invited to club events.

Be sure to follow up with your members throughout the year so that recruitment becomes a continuous activity in your club and so that every member is held accountable for their recruitment activities.

As club members learn to discuss their own personal experiences and the benefits of Rotary with prospective members, they'll soon discover that inviting individuals and sharing Rotary is easier than they thought it would be.

WHY WE JOINED Rotary

We had seen posters and monuments of Rotary but never got the chance to meet any members. It was through our sponsors that we got more information about the club and got the chance to be invited.

For Louis Palma Gil, her motivation for joining Rotary was seeing the remarkable transformation of her sponsor, Sophiya Avisado, since joining her Rotary Club. She witnessed the positive change through Sophiya's social media posts about Rotary activities. Sophiya's Rotary Club's social media presence about its activities gave her the push to join an organization that provided countless opportunities for personal growth, social impact, and meaningful connections.

We also wanted to be in a new environment where we could develop our leadership skills, raise our social awareness, and become part of a global movement that had been making a positive impact for some time now.

Charging of new members (1-Hope) by PP Lorna Llamas during the 33rd Installation and Handover Ceremonies

For Leamie Retales, Rotary's active participation in civic engagement made her decide to join the club. It had always been her vision to join an organization where she could contribute her time, expertise, and resources, no matter how small.

As for Lara De los Santos, she decided to join Rotary as she saw this as a platform for her to be an active and engaged citizen, working together with like-minded individuals to improve the world through service, fellowship, and leadership.

WHY WE JOINED Rotary

Rtn. Monica Suico with Sponsor, Pres. Emmanouelle Zhang

As new members of the Rotary Club of Waling-Waling Davao, we expect to have more opportunities to be engaged in community service and gain access to national and global initiatives in which we could have the chance to participate in service projects, exchange programs, and attend Rotary conferences and events.

For Monica Dan Suico, she expects to develop her leadership skills by being actively engaged in Rotary's activities. She expects to acquire valuable knowledge and skills that she may apply in every aspect of her life.

As new members, we are looking forward to pushing ourselves beyond our comfort zone and embracing new challenges as we take on various roles and responsibilities.

We expect to become actively involved in the Rotary's civic engagements and play a role, no matter how small, in creating a more compassionate, just, and sustainable society.

THE FOUR- WAY TEST

OF THE THINGS WE THINK, SAY, AND DO

1. Is it the TRUTH?
2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOOD WILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

THE OBJECT OF ROTARY

The object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise, and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

FIRST, the development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

SECOND, high ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations, and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

THIRD, the application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal and community life;

FOURTH, the advancement of international understanding, good will, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

CORE VALUES: SERVICE • FELLOWSHIP • DIVERSITY • INTEGRITY • LEADERSHIP

ROTARIAN CODE OF CONDUCT

As a Rotarian, I will:

1. Act with integrity and high ethical standards in my personal and professional life;
2. Deal fairly with others and treat them and their occupations with respect;
3. Use my professional skills through Rotary to mentor young people, help those with special needs, and improve people's quality of life in my community and in the world;
4. Avoid behavior that reflects adversely on Rotary or other Rotarians.

ROTARY'S SEVEN AREAS OF FOCUS

For more than 100 years, Rotarians have joined together from all continents, cultures, and industries to take action in our communities and around the world. With a commitment to achieving lasting change, we work together to empower youth, enhance health, promote peace, and most importantly, advance the community.

While Rotarians can serve in countless ways, Rotary has focused its efforts in seven areas, which reflect some of the most critical and widespread humanitarian needs:

1. Peace and conflict prevention/resolution
2. Disease prevention and treatment
3. Water and sanitation
4. Maternal and child health
5. Basic education and literacy
6. Economic and community development
7. Supporting the environment
